South High School

Denver, Colorado

Dedication

Mr. Albert Mihevic

On the occasion of his twentieth or "china" anniversary of teaching at South High, we pay tribute to Mr. Al Mihevic, a man with the qualities of fine china—sparkle, great worth, dignity and endurance. He personifies also the qualities of a fine man—enthusiasm, warmth, generosity and sincerity.

Mr. Mihevic was born in Aguilar, Colorado, and graduated from Louisville, Colorado, High School where he played football and baseball. In 1948, after having served in the army during World War II, he received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Colorado State College, and in 1954 he earned his M.A. in industrial arts from the University of Denver. Although he was given a chance to play professional football, he decided to teach instead. He is a mechanical drawing instructor and counselor at South.

While the school was on double-session several years ago, Mr. Mihevic helped to organize intramural sports to keep students out of trouble before and after school. He has given aid and encouragement unstintingly to students with special problems. In addition, he has been a faculty representative to the PTA and has worked to improve parent-teacher relations.

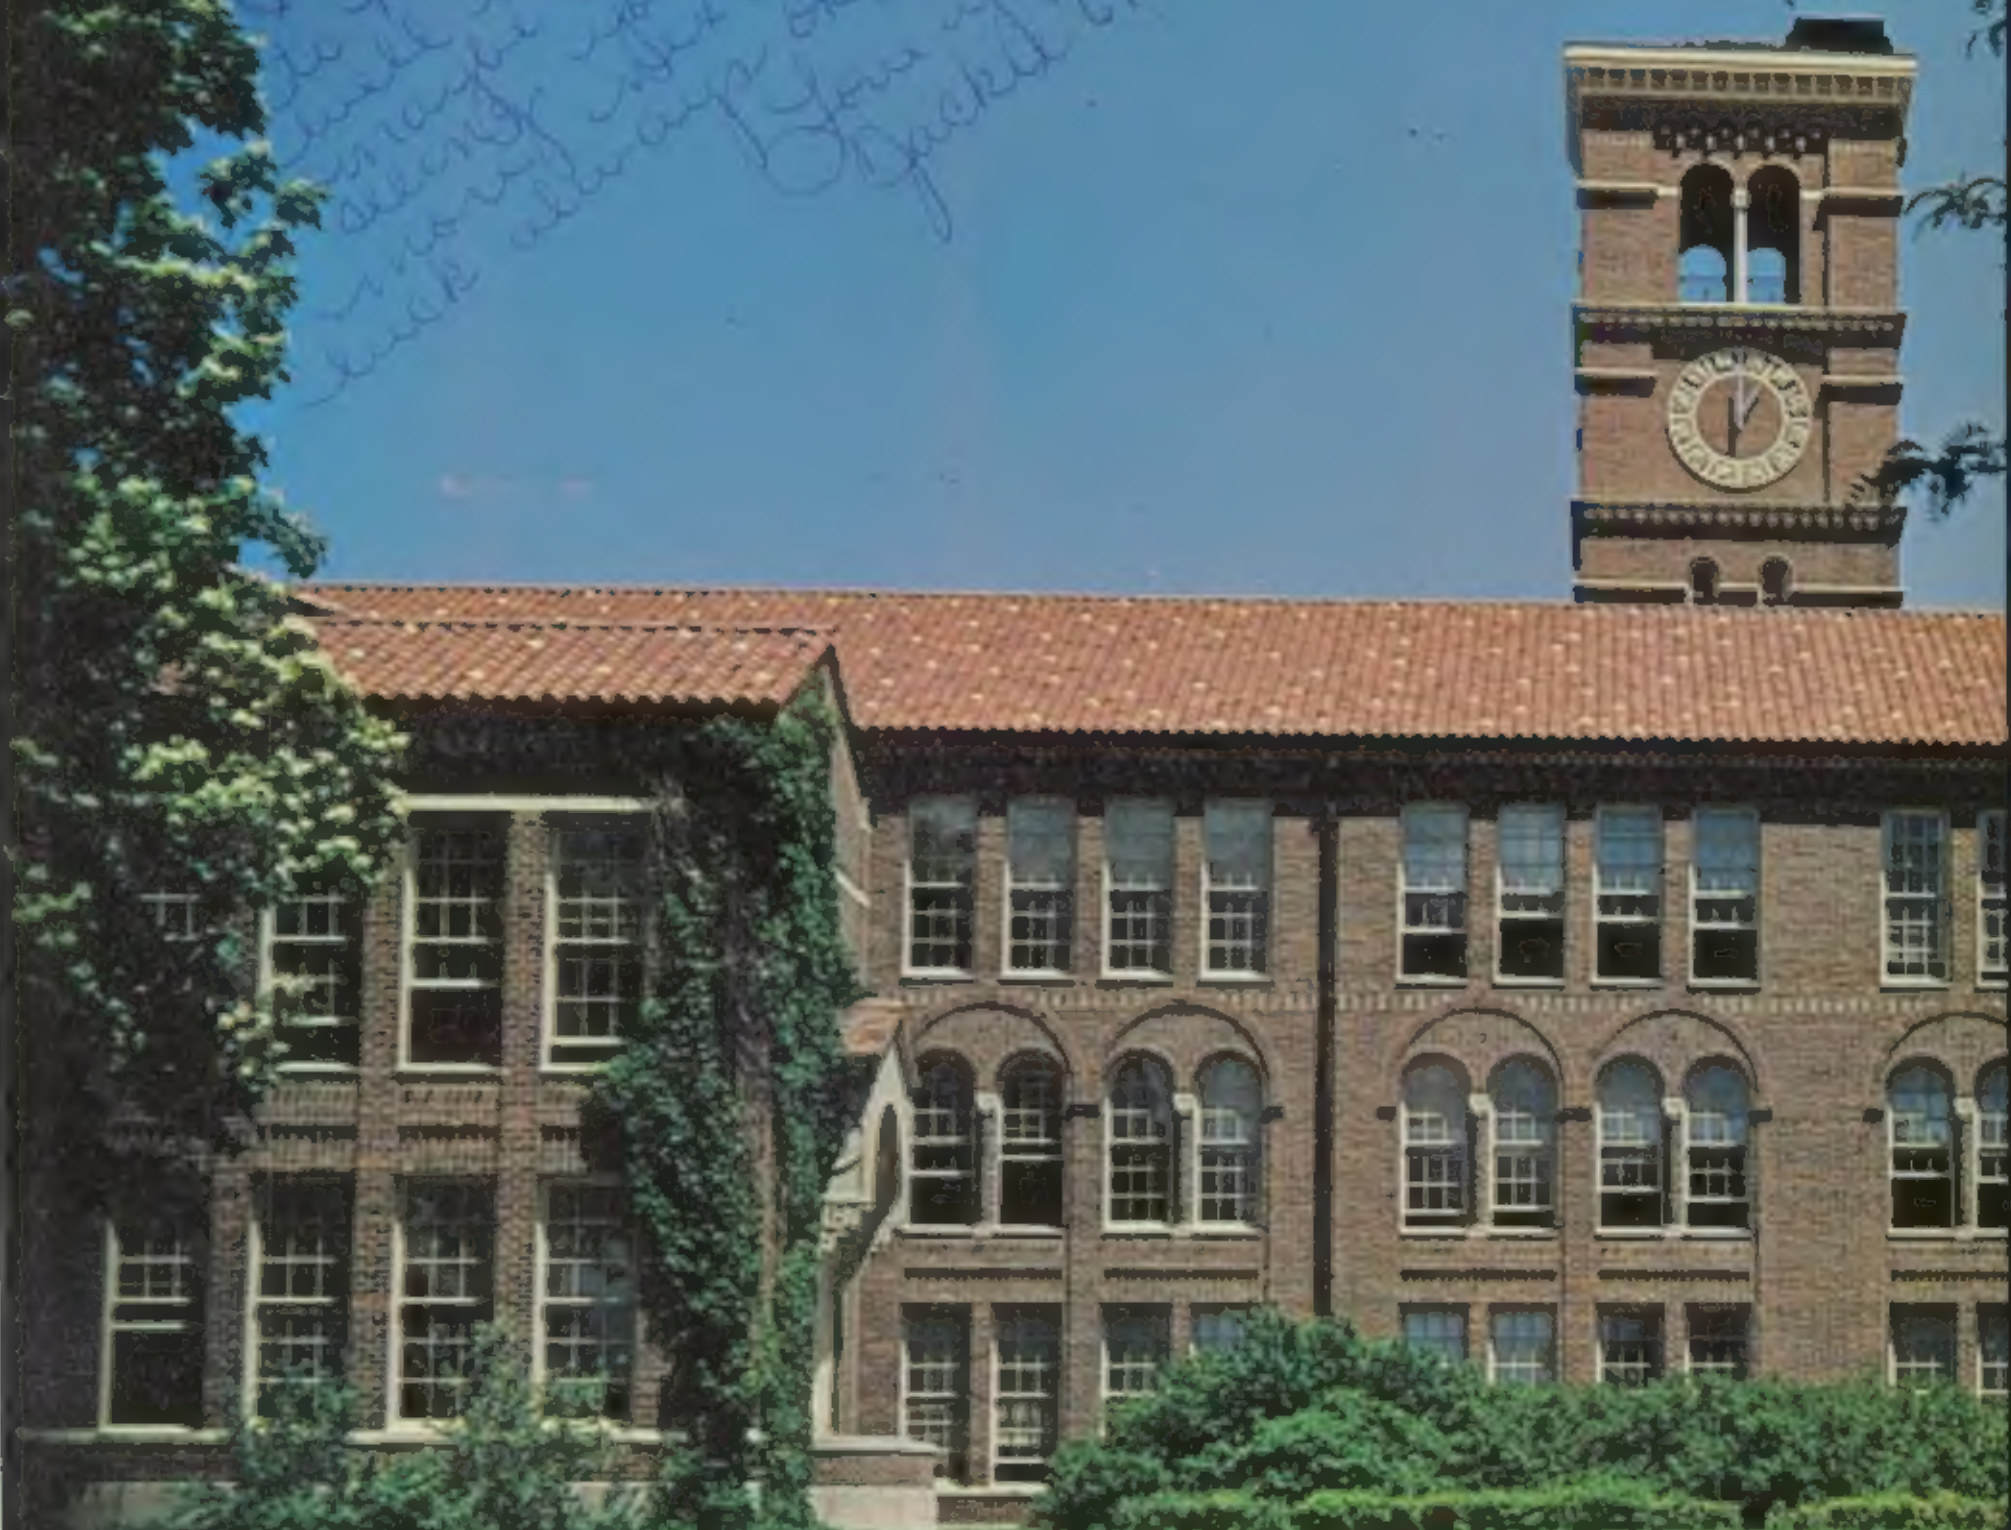

In his leisure time, Mr. Mihevic hunts and fishes, always attends athletic events in which South participates, and works in his community. His daughter Susan graduated from South in 1966 and is a sophomore at CSU. Marcia is a senior cheerleader at South this year.

Students who come into contact with Mr. Mihevic are always impressed by his sincerity and his genuine interest in them. He is a person who likes people, and who is desirous of the best for everyone, especially his students and fellow teachers. His counselees and their parents meet individually with Mr. Mihevic at least one evening at school or at the student's home to discuss the student's abilities and future plans. Besides making sure that each counselee has enough credits for graduation, he informs them of classes from which they would benefit most, making suggestions but always leaving the final decision to the student himself. Always aware of the student's emotions, he counsels each with a special understanding and skill. His counseling and friendship do not cease with graduation, for Mr. Mihevic is willing to devote time and listen to the problems of counselees who always consider him a friend and confidant. Students other than his counselees also benefit from Mr. Mihevic's thoughtful advice on personal problems, classes and colleges.

For your twenty years of giving of your time, energy, and cheerful service to all of South High School, we thank you, Mr. Mihevic, and we dedicate to you the 1968 Johnny Reb.

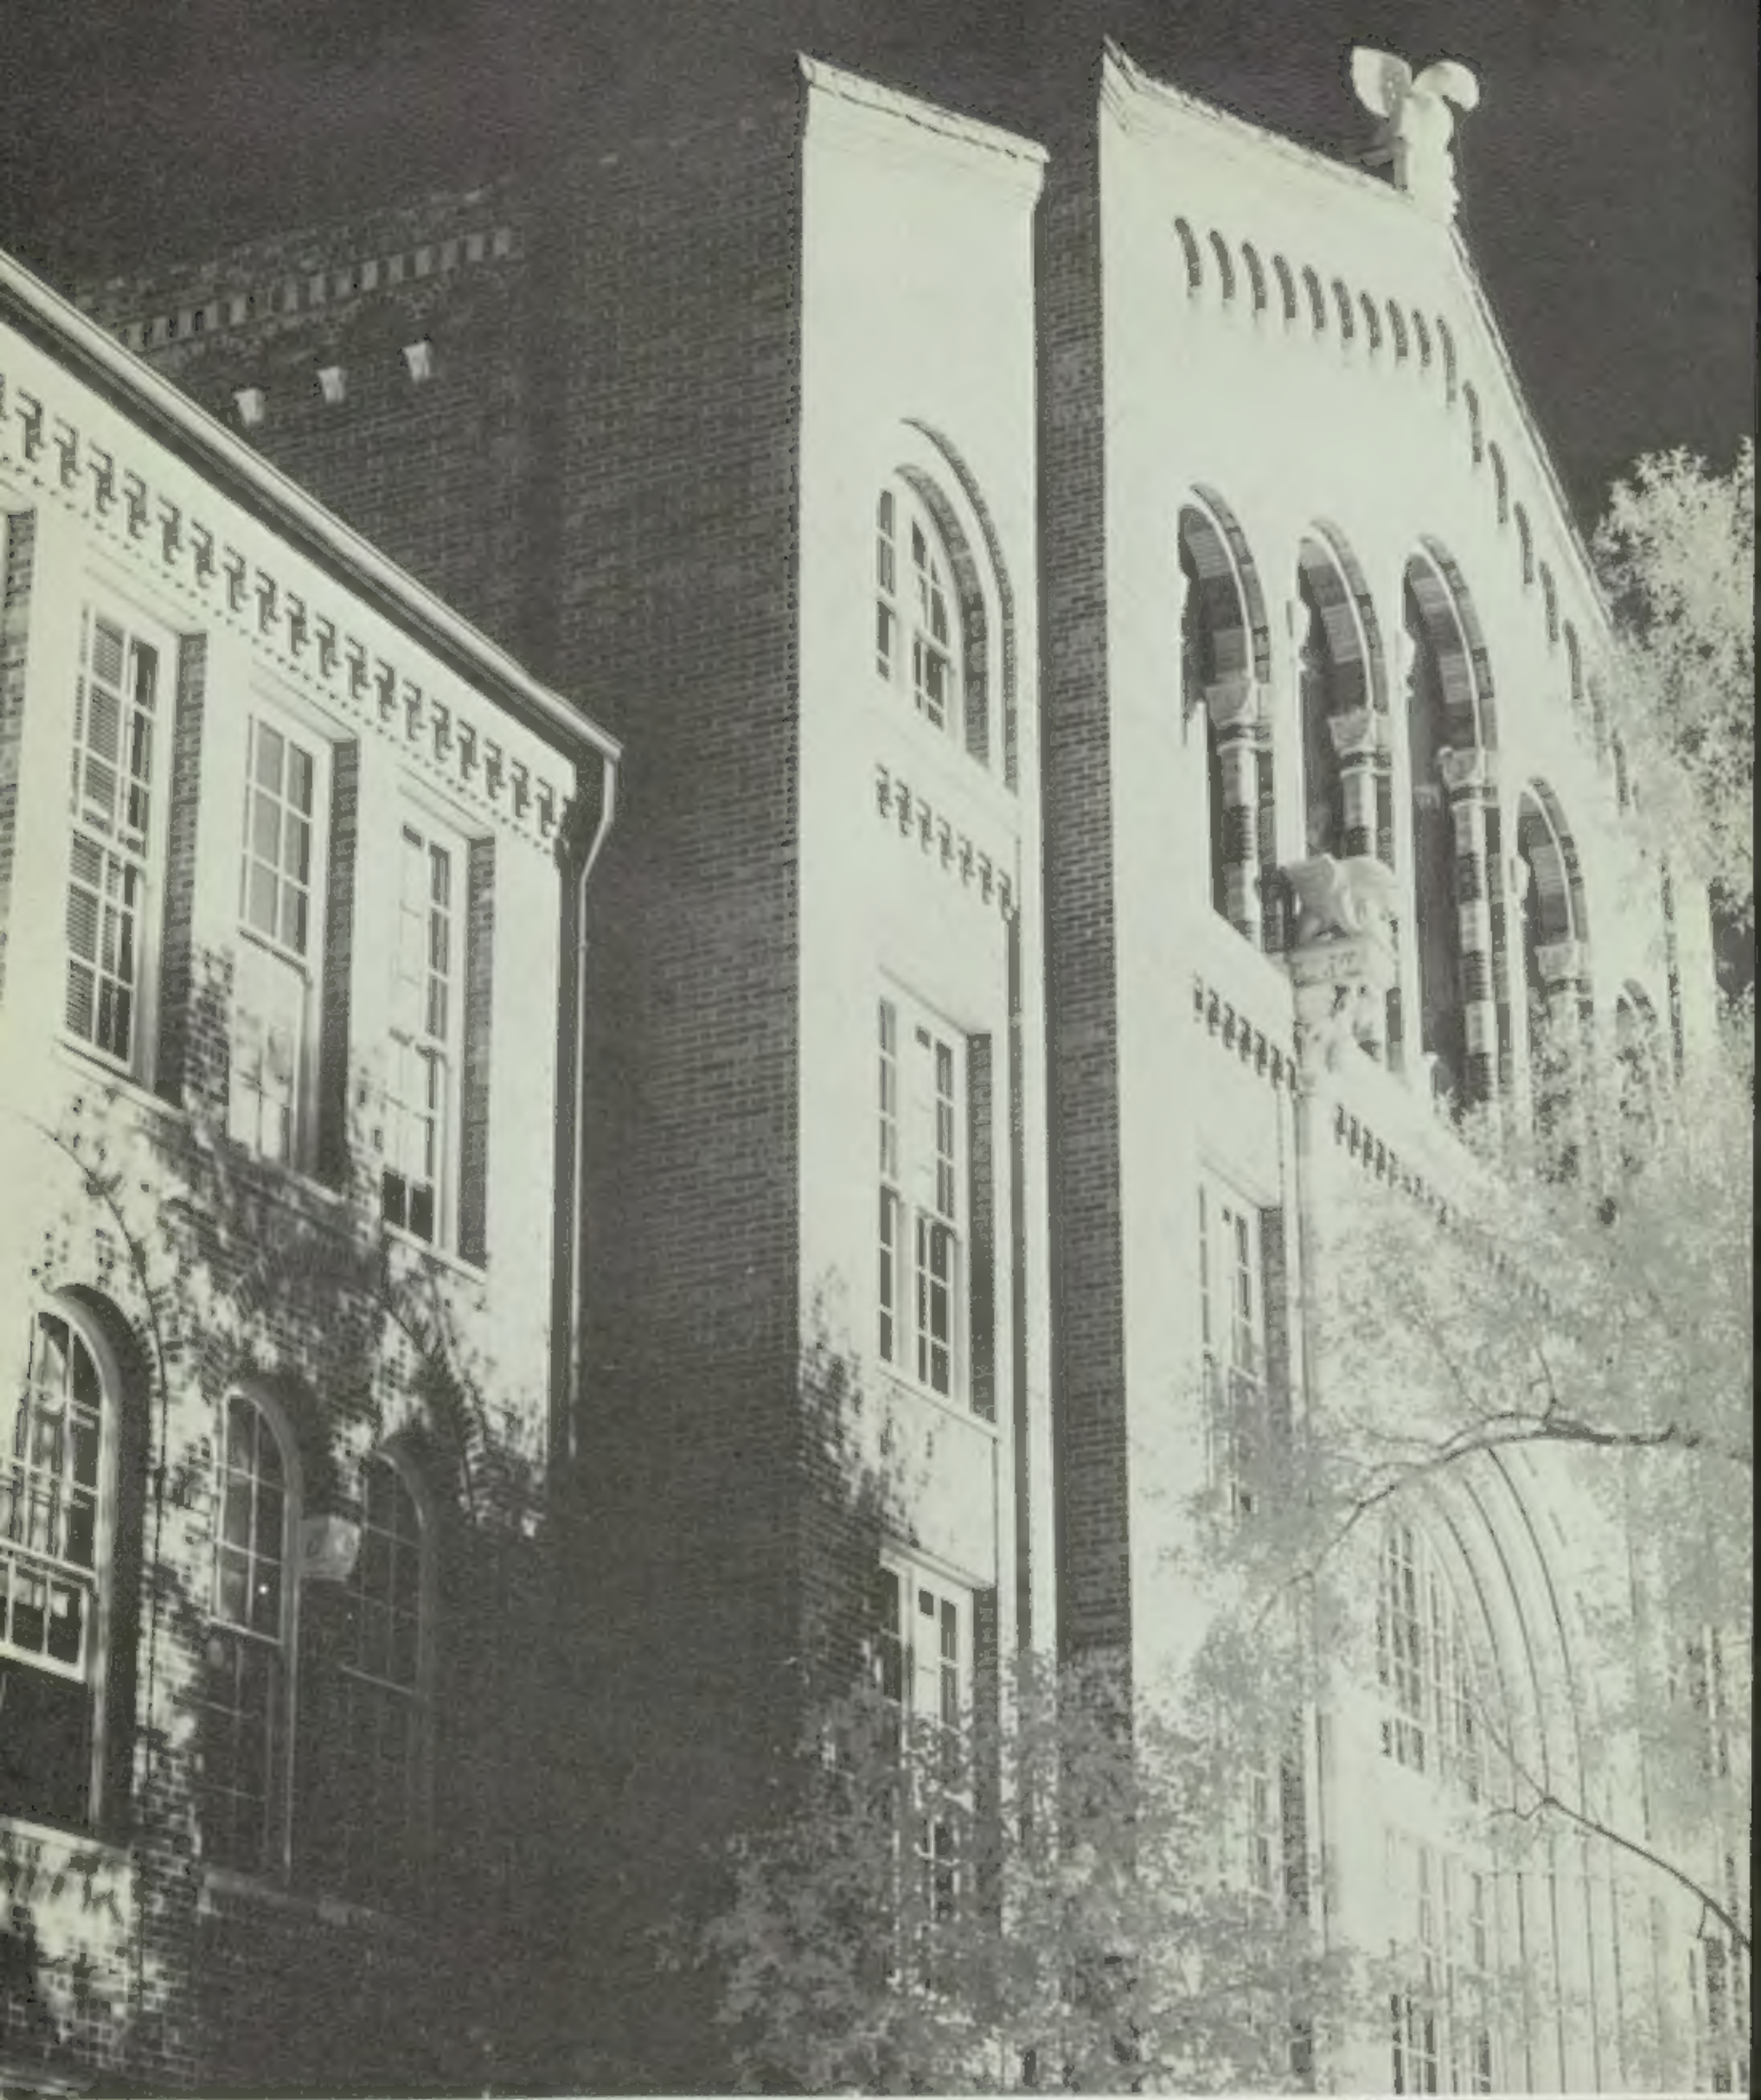

Dear Dave,
I haven't got to know you too well in a little while maybe you'll

Love you

Tis ever sweetly ringing
The name we hold so dear
Our voices take the glad refrain
And echo far and near
As loyal sons and daughters
May we in song unite
All love and praise and honor bring
To the purple and the white
Alma Mater, Alma Mater
Hail all hail to thee
Sing it loud that all may hear
South High hail to thee

Administration

The administrative personnel has shown again this year the skillful guidance and execution of all school activities. Under the leadership of Mr. Ladell Thomas, beginning his first year as principal, the administration organized and directed all of South's instructional and extra-curricular activities, establishing and setting all rules and school policies. Determining the myriad of class schedules, arranging fire and civil defense drills, and handling discipline problems were duties of Mr. Robert Conklin, the assistant principal. Mr. Calvin Seiler, the co-ordinator, was responsible for the instructional, counseling, and guidance programs of the school. The duties of the dean, Mrs. LaRue Belcher, included serving as a counselor in personal and school matters, along with approving applications for student officers, queen candidates, and foreign exchange students. The administration characterized the whole school by tackling their jobs with interest and an enthusiastic school spirit.

Counseling and Special Services

"We are Siamese, if you please," states Mrs. Dudden

The objectives of the counseling and special services personnel were guidance and assistance to the students at South. The "grass root" operations began with the individual counselor helping to schedule each of his counselees for the following semester in co-operation with the student's parents. Another duty of the counselor was the keeping of a cumulative scholastic record for each of his students. The vocational counselor assisted students in finding employment, while the career counselor advised students and parents about occupations and careers. The college counselors assisted students interested in college by bringing college representatives from all over the country to speak, and assisting in the selection of a college. They also provided college bound students with useful information pertaining to admission requirements and testing. The social worker advised students troubled with family or personal problems.

The librarians and the nurse comprised South's special services personnel. The librarians assisted students in finding study aids and developing library skills. Injured or ill students were cared for by the nurse, who also supervised physical examinations, gave eye and ear tests, and kept health records for all students.

Clerical Staff

South's clerical staff took on the endless tasks of managing routine business, which was essential to keep South a smooth running establishment. The office staff handled telephone messages, prepared weekly and special bulletins, distributed locks, arranged for substitute teachers, kept student records on file and arranged conference appointments. These were only a few of their duties, which included managing attendance files and absence excuses, and distributing special forms and notices to students and teachers. They also supervised dispatching textbooks and fee cards, while the financial transactions of the numerous school clubs and organizations were handled by the school treasurer. The result of their seemingly tireless effort was that South High was a well-ordered and carefully managed institution during the past year.

Business Education

The curriculum open to a student in the business education department at South added to his effectiveness in today's business world. A variety of courses was offered, among which stenography, transcription, and typing were but a few. The office practice and secretarial students succeeded in learning office routines and the operation of business machines. Book-keeping courses trained future accountants and business managers. Personal shorthand proved worthwhile to many students as a note taking aid. Other courses such as Business English, law, and arithmetic provided a well rounded curriculum. The students who participated in South's business courses found them to have been valuable assets in shaping their futures.

Music

The objective of South's music department was to develop and increase students' already existent musical talents. Musical organizations for student participation included Concert Band, Concert Orchestra, Girls' Ensemble, Bach Choir, and Concert Choir. Other organizations were Advanced Bands, Sophomore and Junior Mixed Choirs, and String Orchestra. Two of the interesting courses offered were music history and music theory. Students prepared for their many public performances at school and in the community by long hours of private practice and special group rehearsals. Music students who were extremely well qualified were elected to the All-City and All-State musical organizations.

Art

To meet the need for artistic expression of many of South's students, the art department offered such diverse classes as commercial art, fashion drawing, and art appreciation, which enlisted many new techniques. Ceramics was taught in addition to the standard crafts and drawing and painting classes offered by many high schools. Techniques involved and mastered by students included lithograph, oil, tempera, charcoal, water color, leather, plastic and clay. Students who completed the courses offered appreciated the qualities of art and its masterful works, and the influence of man's expression through arts on everyday life

English

South's English department this year put trial classes and new teaching methods into the regular curriculum, creating new and exciting courses and techniques to enlarge the student's understanding of his language. A number of specialized courses which evolved from the Denver schools' K-12 planning program were introduced second semester. Characteristic of the new approach were emphasis upon the linguistic structure of our language and the approach to composition through the literary theme concerning the dignity of man. Courses offered included college preparatory English, and various literature classes in which poems, plays, novels, and essays of American, English, and European authors were studied. School productions profited from the drama and speech students who used acquired skills to produce the many fine productions seen this year, while each individual developed poise and confidence. Composition and creative writing classes fostered the ability to express ideas on paper. Journalistic abilities of interested students were widened in scope by their participation in the publication of the Confederate, South's newspaper, and the Johnny Reb, the yearbook. With the gradual increase over the past year of equipment and materials to be utilized by teacher and student alike, greater understanding of English was made possible at South.

Industrial Arts

The construction of attractive and applicable projects took place in South's woodwork and metalwork classes. Included in the industrial arts curriculum were the correct operation and maintenance of power and hand equipment and industrial machinery, proper shop technique, and vocational scope for students interested in industry. All projects required explicit planning and the use of models as patterns of work. Students interested in the fields of drafting, architecture, or engineering studied the challenging art of mechanical drawing, which emphasized the proper use of specialized instruments in making drawings, to interpretation of complex drafts and the use of the mathematics involved. Pupils interested in stage operations applied their skills in mechanics, construction, and in various crafts and arts, to the management of the stage for school activities in stagecraft classes.

Home Economics

South's department of home economics offered the interested girl a chance to prepare for the duties of caring for a family and conducting a successful home. Well qualified teachers instructed girls in a variety of courses which included cooking, sewing, and the art of home decoration. The girls in foods classes were educated in modern kitchens and learned the importance of nutrition by planning, preparing, and serving wholesome meals. Those students electing to take clothing acquired a talent for designing and creating basic garments, and could advance to the point of being able to sew skillfully at home. Techniques of design, fashion, and choice of materials were taught in the advanced classes. Home decoration helped the girls to understand the value of interior design and emphasized the development of good taste in the selection and arrangement of furnishings.

A student entering one of South's foreign language rooms may be greeted with the words, "¿A propósito, ¿has oído el último chisme?" If you didn't understand the above words you are probably not familiar with Spanish, one of several languages offered. Courses in German, Russian, Latin, French, and Spanish are presented at five levels. Students of Latin and German may elect to take college level instruction. A language laboratory helps the pupils understand the spoken language through the extensive use of tape recordings and records. Adding depth to classes is the study of the history, customs, and literature of the areas where the language is spoken. Those in advanced classes have the opportunity to translate and interpret outstanding literary works from the original language. South's various foreign language courses encourage students to continue working in that field in an effort to expand the ability to communicate.

Physical Education

Assisting students in the promotion of physical and mental health is South's physical education department, which puts the pupil in tiptop shape through the emphasis of adeptness, agility, and vitality. Sports such as football, basketball, baseball, softball, speedball, and track competition aid in developing teamwork and cooperation. Gymnastics offers the learner a chance to become proficient on the apparatus while improving in form, attaining versatility, and adding to his knowledge of style. The sports of wrestling and swimming are included in this curriculum, adding skill and soundness. The intrinsic of choreography and diverse types of dance supplement the girls' skill in modern dance classes. The demonstration of first aid to the injured and accident prevention is an important dimension taught in the health education course.

Mathematics

The intentions and efficiency of a South student are reflected in the type of math courses he elects to study. The essential principles of mathematics are emphasized in basic and general math classes. Presenting pupils with a more demanding task are courses on the four levels of algebra and plane or solid geometry. For the student who decides to pursue a more rigorous standard of math, there are classes concerning math analysis and trigonometry. Finally, there is a special accelerated program organized for the interested, able, and ambitious students. This program is initiated in the sophomore year with the study in depth of plane and solid geometry, succeeded by unified algebra and trigonometry in the junior year. The accelerated student who wishes to continue with advance placement may take the two-period calculus and analytical geometry course which is extremely difficult and offers rewarding college credit. Because developing logical quantitative thinking is the aim of South's math department, a student who completes any of these many math courses is certain to be a more enlightened person.

Science

Contributing to a student's understanding and enjoyment of our ever-expanding technological world is South's science department, which offers a diversified field of study. While the behavior of elements is studied by chemistry students, scholars of physics learn the relationship of matter to energy. Plants, animals, and human beings and the life processes of the various forms of biological existence are studied by biology students. Each of these classes of life is investigated in more detail in individual courses: botany, zoology, and physiology, respectively. Since all these courses are experimental sciences, weekly laboratory periods complement the regular class curriculum. Adding scope to the science department are courses concerning geology, photography, and physical science. Accomplished and dedicated seniors interested in chemistry may elect to study a college course in that field.

Mr. Hettler cuts the cornerstone for his cabin

The objective of South's social science department has been to show students the importance of past history's influence upon present times. The courses offered followed the progress of human civilization with relation to man, his religious beliefs, and social and governmental ideologies from the past to the present. Through a study of ancient, medieval, European, American, Western and contemporary history, students widened their knowledge of the influence past events have had in shaping the future. New this year was a course in Asiatic history, in which students learned about Asiatic people, their beliefs and ideologies, and their effect on the modern world. After studying the political systems of various cultures, students could better cope with today's changing world. The accelerated history curriculum enveloped all of these courses and gave students the opportunity to study college level history during their senior year. Government and economics courses explained the complex organizational systems of various nations. The facets of the human mind and human behavior were explored in psychology classes, while sociology students delved into the complexities of society, social institutions, and social relationships with which they come into contact daily.

South's Confederates March on Their Stomachs

A student who took a look behind the front lines of South's lunchroom staff found a perfect example of teamwork. Individual routines were carefully planned in order to insure that each student received a hearty, well-balanced meal. Hot lunches were the primary concern of the staff, but care had to be taken to keep an adequate supply of such things as sandwiches, potato chips, salads, cakes and pies. This demand required that each worker had to take the responsibility of successfully fulfilling her particular job. The lunchroom ladies then served a mass of hungry Rebels, washed all the dishes, and attempted to return the kitchen and lunchroom to their original condition. This collection of cooks seen scurrying through the steam filled kitchen continued to be a valuable asset to South High.

"Three more minutes and this spaghetti should be ready."

Custodians Make a Clean Sweep

After a complete repainting of the entire building and the installation of new locker doors this past summer, South's force of custodians has continued to keep the southern estate in good condition. The new coat of paint was welcomed by all, and especially the seniors, who enjoyed the purple tint of senior hall. The custodians worked hard all year running the elevator for teachers and injured students, keeping rooms and hallways in top shape for the studious Rebels, operating huge boilers to supply heat, and insuring that adequate light was provided. Other services rendered by the group of operation and maintenance men included repair of broken windows and all hardware, and keeping the grounds free of litter and trash. Their work was greatly appreciated, but the summer brings them no rest as they will again rejuvenate the entire building and buckle on their armor in preparation for a new company of Rebels.

"I told them that this chair had a 300 pound limit!"

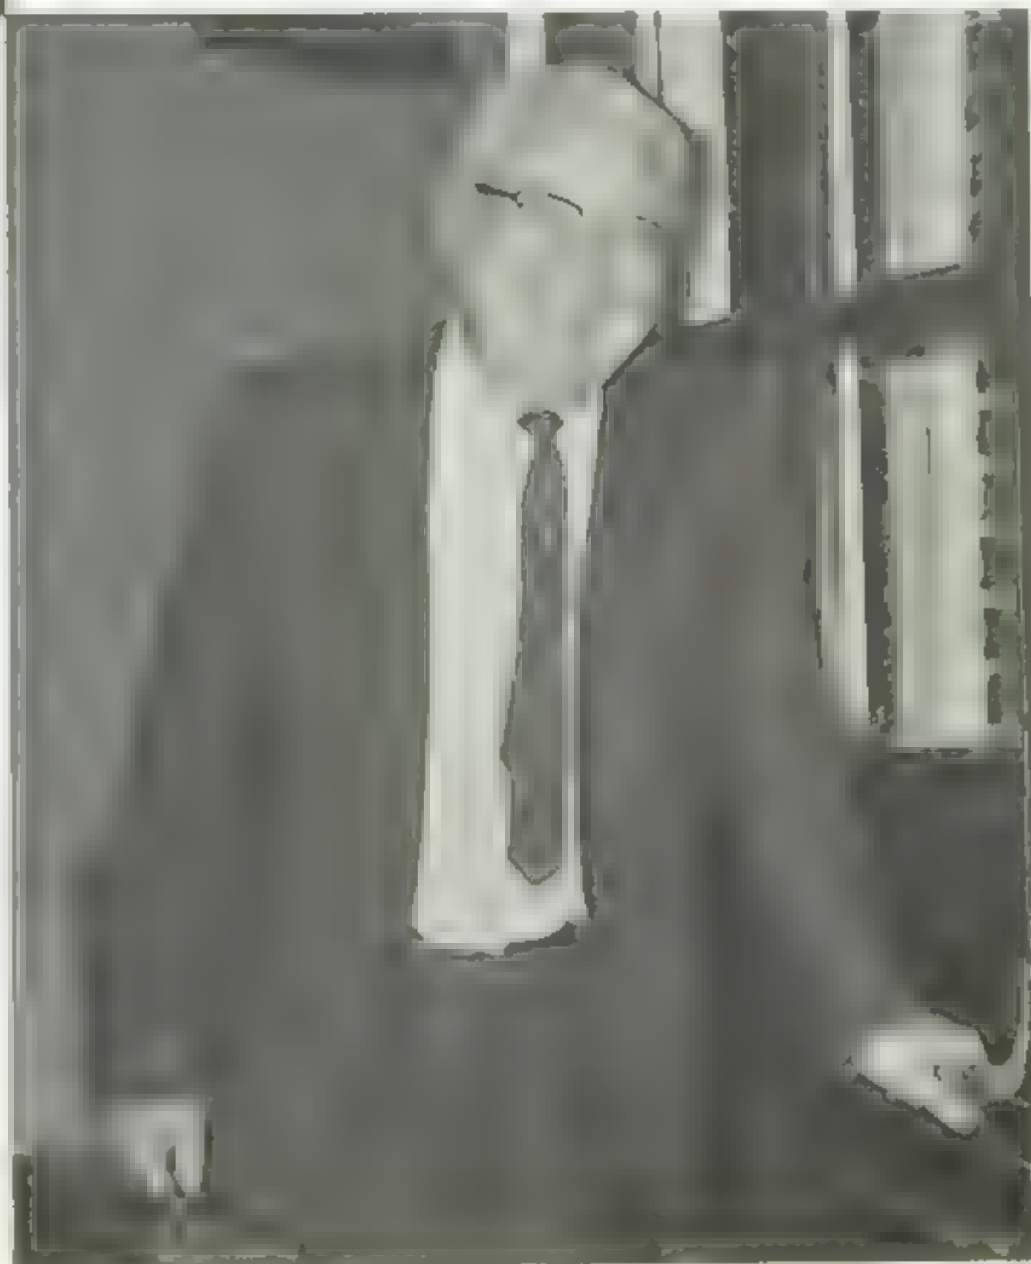

Mr. Joseph Strain

'Personality and enthusiasm radiate from him' is the graphic description given to Mr. Joseph Strain by student council members. This energetic man, the motivating force behind members of student council, helps them develop the leadership qualities they already possess. During the summer of 1966 Mr. Strain went to Tacoma, Washington to participate in the National Student Council Conference, adding to his already vast experience. Born in Denver, Mr. Strain graduated from South High School in 1948, achieving all state in basketball and honorable mention in football. After receiving his Bachelor of Arts degree from Philips University and his Masters degree in Guidance and Counseling at D U, Mr. Strain began his teaching career at Cole Junior High in 1953. There, he also began his coaching career with the Young American League, coaching the Red Skins. In 1956 he went to Manual High School where he taught, coached and began his "full time job" with student council. In 1963 he began his career as a South Rebel taking on Student Council and becoming a member of the coaching staff. All of South's students benefit from the time and patience of this dedicated man.

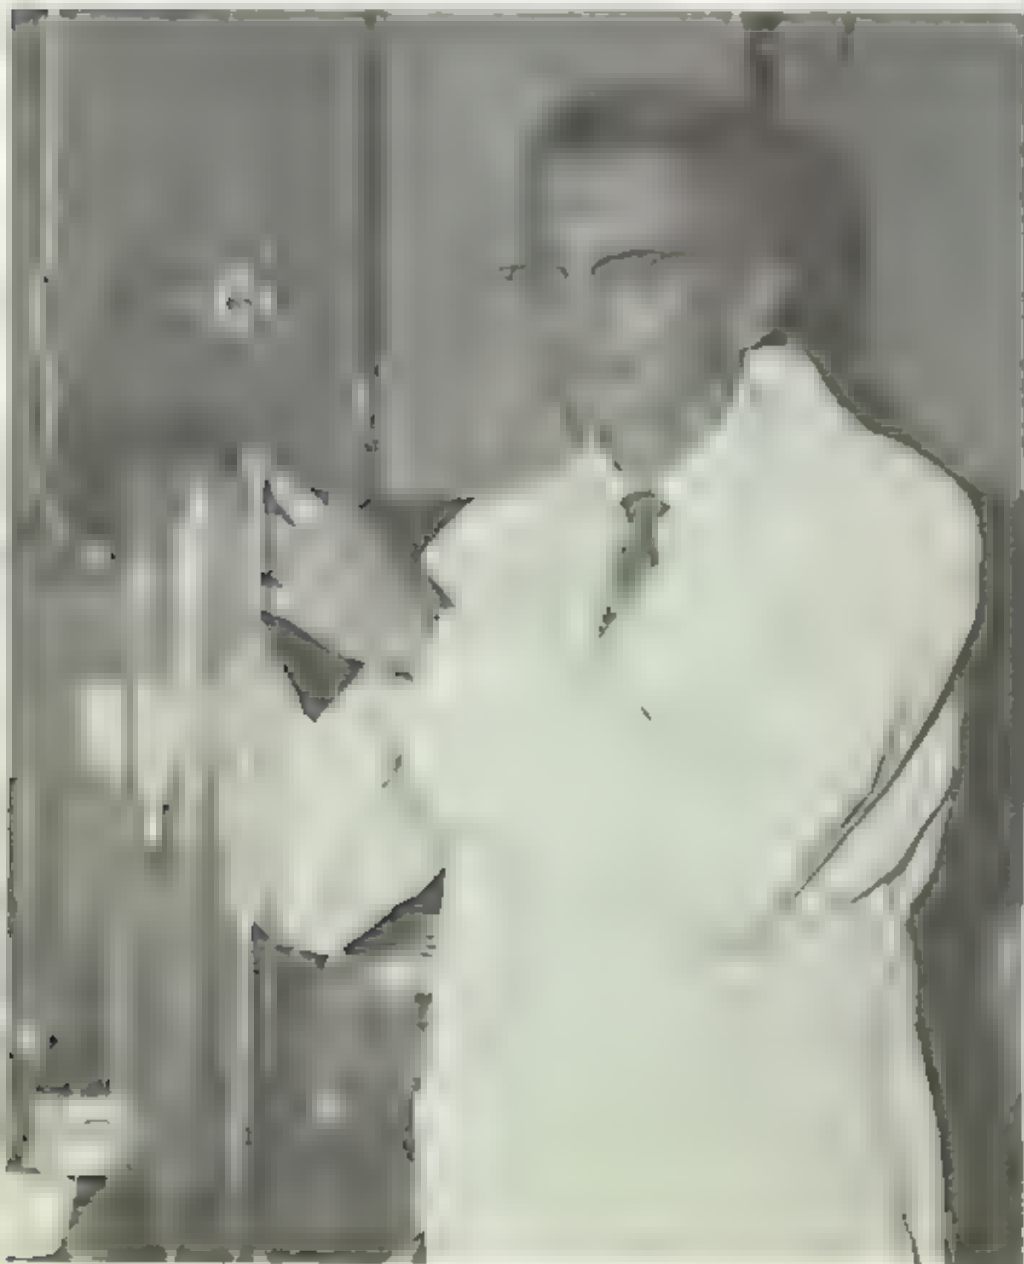

Mr. James Kingsbury

It has been said that the greatness of a man can nearly always be measured by his willingness to be kind. Certainly Mr. James Kingsbury can be recognized as a great man and he is distinguished by the big smile he wears and by his warm personality. Born in Denver, Jim Kingsbury attended North High School and was a loyal Viking. He received both his Bachelors and Masters degrees from the University of Denver and is currently working on another degree at Colorado University. Mr. Kingsbury began his teaching career doing supply work at Grant and Morey Junior High Schools. He then accepted a full-time teaching contract at Baker Junior High School until he became a Rebel in 1952. Jim Kingsbury has been a friend to many students at South and he continues to be an excellent counselor as well as an instructor of American History. A man of many interests, Mr. Kingsbury belongs to the South Investment Club and is an active Scout leader. Although it seems that Mr. Kingsbury is a very busy man, his main interest is in being a happily married man with three wonderful children, Candy, J. D., and Jerry.

Miss Rubymae Evans

"Who can find a virtuous woman? For her price is far above rubies." This passage comes from Proverbs 31, written to describe people like Miss Rubymae Evans, a dedicated and highly respected language teacher. Miss Evans, a native Coloradoan, was born in Canon City where she grew up and attended high school. She received her Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Denver and her Masters degree in Spanish at Middlebury College in Vermont. She also attended Columbia University doing advanced graduate work. Students who have known Miss Evans during her career know what a hard working, considerate individual she is, often going out of her way to assist a student faced with problems met in learning a foreign language. Many of her classes will recall the sense of humor she often exhibits to stress a point. Miss Evans began her teaching career in Canon City, and began her association with the Denver schools teaching at Byers before coming to South. With her association with South, she took on sponsorship of Pep Club, in which she was very active for many years and was instrumental in establishing many of the customs and annual activities now practiced. She was also sponsor of Spanish Club. Her hobbies include traveling and the arts. During her travels, Miss Evans has been to Spain, Portugal, France, Italy, England, and Mexico.

Mr. Lloyd Meech

Merit is in hand for the man at South High School who has contributed positively to the great forward strides taken by science. Mr. Lloyd Meech, a chemistry teacher, has been instrumental in teaching many students the subject in which he excels, and has thereby encouraged others to take an interest in the field of chemistry. Born in Corydon, Indiana, Mr. Meech graduated from the Corydon High School and Purdue University. In 1951 Mr. Meech came to Colorado where he obtained a Masters degree in chemistry for the University of Colorado. Merrill Junior High School was his first teaching assignment and he instructed classes in general science and biology for a period of five years before bringing his talents to South in 1959. Lloyd Meech was soon recognized as an outstanding educator and chosen to teach advanced placement chemistry, which is essentially college curriculum. A conscientious teacher, Mr. Meech spends many of his spare hours investigating new methods of instruction and recent discoveries in the world of science, but he still finds time to enjoy his lovely family, and his daughters, Sandra, and Karen keep him busy with their many projects.

Sophomores Enter Into Rebel-Land

Lively music flew out of Pandora's Bachs.

The class of '70 was initiated and welcomed to South with the annual Sophomore Class Party. The "Get-Acquainted" theme set a gay mood for the dance, which lasted from 8:00 to 10:00 p.m. Refreshments including coke, donuts, and daffy apples were served to replenish appetites and to keep enthusiasm high, while music was provided by "Pandora's Bachs." Honorary guests included all student council members. After this royal welcome, the sophomores felt they truly belonged to the Rebel student-body.

Loyal Rebels assembled in the east parking lot on September 23 for Rebel Roundup, the annual co-rallying sponsored by the Confederate. Coke and donuts were served, and purple and white balloons were sold. After the cheerleaders raised pre-game enthusiasm, the Rebel gathering marched to the stadium. At the half-time, Pep Club saluted Thomas Jefferson with the letters T.J. Then they saluted the Rebels with the double S, the symbol of South High. After this, Pep Club formed a circle and danced the "Siesta Swing" to tie in with the theme of the Homecoming Dance, "South of the Border." The hours Pep Club spent practicing under the leadership of Barbara Norris, drill master, certainly paid off. The only shadow cast on the day was the defeat of the Rebels at the hands of the T.J. Spartans, 34-13.

The Homecoming Dance was the last activity of the great day. The Action Brass and The Grym Reapers provided the music. Crowned as Homecoming Queen to reign over the festivities was Greta Davis with Princesses Diane Vaughn and Marilyn Weinel.

Greta Davis is crowned Homecoming Queen by Head Boy, Jerry Hamilton.

Can you imagine not dating for a year? Senior Drama, under the direction of Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom, presented such a predicament to Southern playgoers. The Shakespearean comedy, Loves' Labours Lost, was presented to Rebels on November 17 and 18. Leading roles were played by Pete Means, Debbie Nerone, Celine Gaut, Curtis Hendricks, Mike Whittemore, Frank Cristiano, Rob Harper, Ron Hernandez, Mary Gaehl, Megan McDaniel, Diana Summerhayes, Pam Lunn, Linda Pixler, Margaret May. After watching the amusing pranks of Fernand, the King of Navarre, and his three lords, Rebels attended "Dogpatch USA," a turnabout dance, on November 18.

Rebels Cage Money for Needy

Has a flying saucer landed in the football field of South High? Has B.E.D.L.A.M. descended upon us? Or has the sky fallen?

These were just a few of the questions asked by marveling Rebels as the traditional Cageball was set in play on October 10. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors cheered for their class or actively participated in the game.

The first game was played between the sophomores and the juniors. The victorious juniors and the seniors then had a play-off game. After a very hectic struggle aided by cheering, enthusiastic onlookers, the game ended in a one to one tie.

United Fund contributions swelled as Rebels donated their coins to attend this unforgettable scramble.

Yeah boys, yeah cheerleaders, yeah, yeah boy cheerleaders'

It must be a dinosaur egg.

Key Clubbers Klomp to South Pole

Rebels enjoy a slow dance from the Kandy Store Prophets

An exceptional band strummed tunes throughout "South Pole Fantasy"

Key Club, the boys' service organization at South, sponsored its annual dance on December 16, in the boys' gym. This year Key Clubbers chose South Pole Fantasy as their theme. Students danced from 8:30 to 11:30 in a fantasy world of penguins and "south" poles. The Kandy Store Prophets provided Rebel couples with sweet notes throughout the evening.

Howdy pardner!

Cupid Shoots Beau With Arrow

Cupid's Beau, the annual Red Cross dance, was held on February 10. This dance is one of the most memorable of the year because it is a girl-ask-boy dance. A beautifully decorated ballroom carried out the theme, "Under the Sweetheart Tree," as the Bakersfield Charter kept the tempo at a fast pace throughout the evening. The highlight of the dance was the coronation of Jerry Hamilton as Cupid's Beau King. His attendants were Duncan Ferguson and Dean Horan.

Dramatists Bewitch Children

South's branch of Children's Theater, a professional or amateur acting organization which specializes in plays for young children, chose "Pegora the Witch" for their play this year. After adequate rehearsals, the young dramatists performed for the children in hospitals, schools and community centers throughout the city.

All School Show singers praise the New Ashmolean Marching Society

What are you—

The Question Is, "Where's Charley?"

You say you can't find Charley? He's masquerading as his Aunt, Donna Lucia! Dave Kibble and Bev Case led a cast of talented Rebels through the antics of this year's all-school show, "Where's Charley?" Mike Bancroft, Barbara Glassy, Rob Harper, and Megan McDaniel added spirit and zest to the production in their supporting roles. South's students were able to attend productions given on February 22, 23, and 24.

Teacher directors Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom, Mr. Ellsworth Mitick, Mr. Ed Lenicheck, and Mr. Dana Wells laughed along with the audience at the results of their devoted rehearsing.

The creativity of Jory Hancock, director of choreography, added a touch of elegance and grace to the production as precision-conscious dancers glided through their routines. Pam Lunn used her sewing talents to design the elegant period costumes.

"Where's Charley?" will always be remembered as one of South's funniest, most outstanding All-School Shows.

Class Shows Give Assemblies New Look

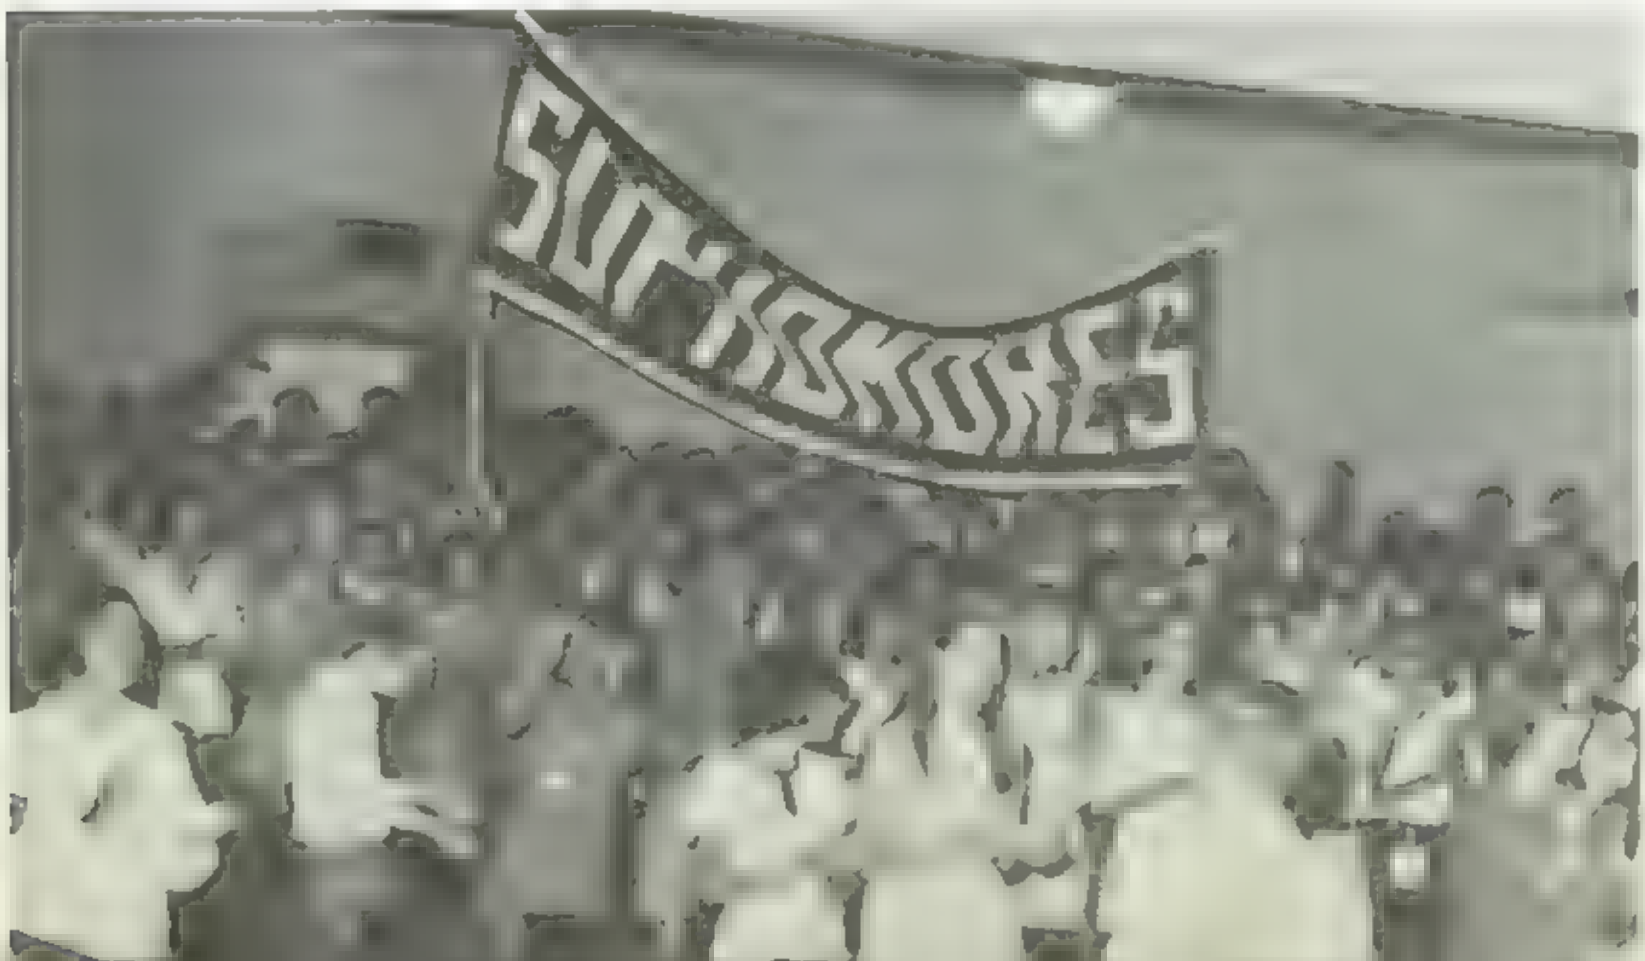

Patty Schweiger is a strong advocate of "Fun in the Sun."

Rallies and assemblies play an important part in the school life of South's students. Nearly every Friday afternoon before an important weekend sports event the hallowed halls of South are filled with drum vibrations and screaming voices. Released from classes and study, Rebels congregate in the auditorium for a rousing pep rally. Skits depicting the failure of the opposing team, lively dance routines of the pom-pom girls, and the cheers of the cheerleaders help to build school and team spirit!

Assemblies, like rallies, are looked forward to with eager anticipation. This year something new was added to the list of South's assemblies. Each class presented its best talent in a class show as part of the competition for Color Day points. Teasers were given for the numerous plays and shows that took place during the year. The latest in fashion was presented to South's girls in the all-girl assembly sponsored by McCall's patterns. Concert Choir provided seasonal music during the Thanksgiving and Christmas assemblies. During the course of the year, Rebels gathered for Lettermen's Assemblies for the purpose of honoring South's best athletes.

No matter what the occasion, a Rebel gathering always proved to be entertaining and worthwhile to all Rebels.

Student Council Activates Rebels

Coordinating school activities is a big job, and South's Student Council does it well. All through the year students worked hard to help their class triumph in the various activities planned by Council members.

Purple Parliament, the annual lesson in leadership, was held on February 27. The purpose of this workshop was to teach future all-school or class officers the qualities of a good leader.

Other activities planned by the council helped students gain Color Day points for their class. The Canned Foods Drive served a dual purpose. It gave Rebels a chance to earn points as well as a chance to help needy families in the Denver area. Snow Creation enabled students to show their artistic ability by molding strange creations on South's front lawn. Sacks and boxes of useful items multiplied in the west parking lot during the Goodwill Drive. Rebels did an exceptional job of collecting repairable articles to aid the people of the Goodwill Industries. Council members also sponsored buses to the basketball games for those pupils who had transportation problems.

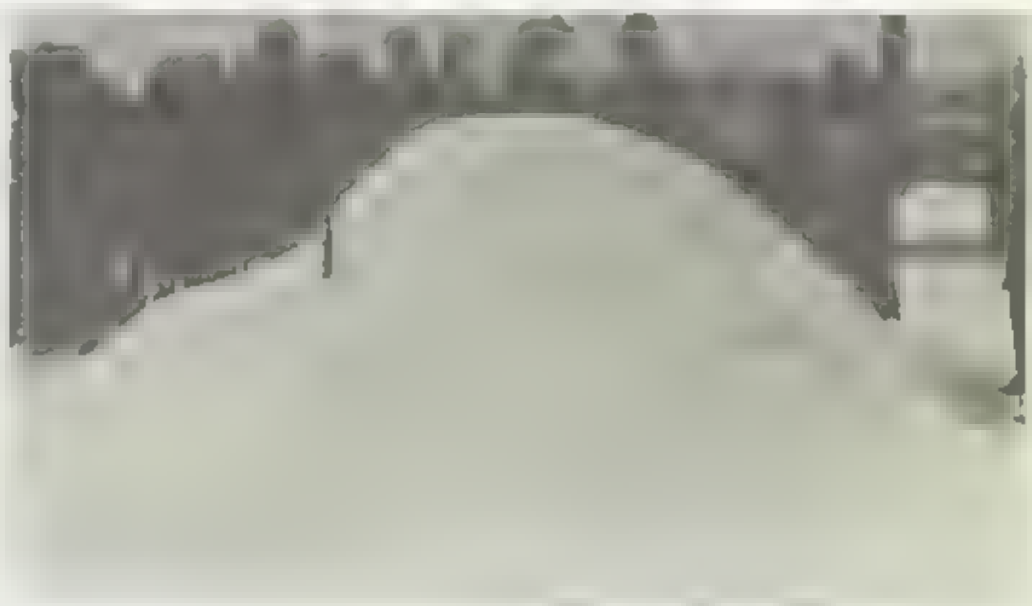

The Student Council helped to make this year an enjoyable and beneficial one for the faculty and students of South.

Most of the Juniors are still on duty, looking the finale at their show.

Homecoming Queen

Southern Belles Ring in Homecoming

Homecoming Day, September 23, was a red-letter day on South's calendar. Rebel Round-up, followed by a march to the stadium, started the day's festivities. During half-time, three nervous queen candidates were presented to South and Thomas Jefferson. The game ended in a score of 34-13 in favor of the opposing team.

Happiness and excitement filled the hearts of South students and alumni at the Homecoming Dance, "South of the Border." Rebels danced to the pulsing beat of The Action Brass and The Grym Reapers. At ten o'clock the queen candidates, all of whom were members of Pep Club and voted on by South's athletes, were presented. The evening reached its peak when Jerry Hamilton crowned Greta Davis South's fourth annual Homecoming Queen. Her Princesses were Diane Vaughan and Marilyn Weinel.

Color Day Queens Are Classy

Many Rebels felt as if they had been competing for Color Day points "Only Yesterday." May brought an end to this competition and a reward to the winning class. Class queens were crowned during the Color Day assembly. The class which had the most points crowned their queen the Queen of Color Day.

After a busy day of track meets, a tug of war, a car bang, and picnics on the lawn, Rebels attended the Color Day rance. In Charles Lindberg's Golden Post-War Speak-easy, also known as the Girls' gym, punch was served from a bathtub and shows featuring Mr. Ed Lenicheck's Dixieland Band were given at nine, ten, and eleven o'clock. In the Boys' gym the U. S. Male provided music for Rebels attended the Color Day dance. In Chaplin, the Keystone Cops and other personalities of the Roaring 20's flickered above the band in a show called Projection '28. At ten o'clock Winnie Holmes was crowned Queen of Color Day.

Pig-Skinners Score for Second

South's football team had a fine season this year, winning six, losing only two, and tying one. With this outstanding record, South finished the season in a tie for second place with George Washington.

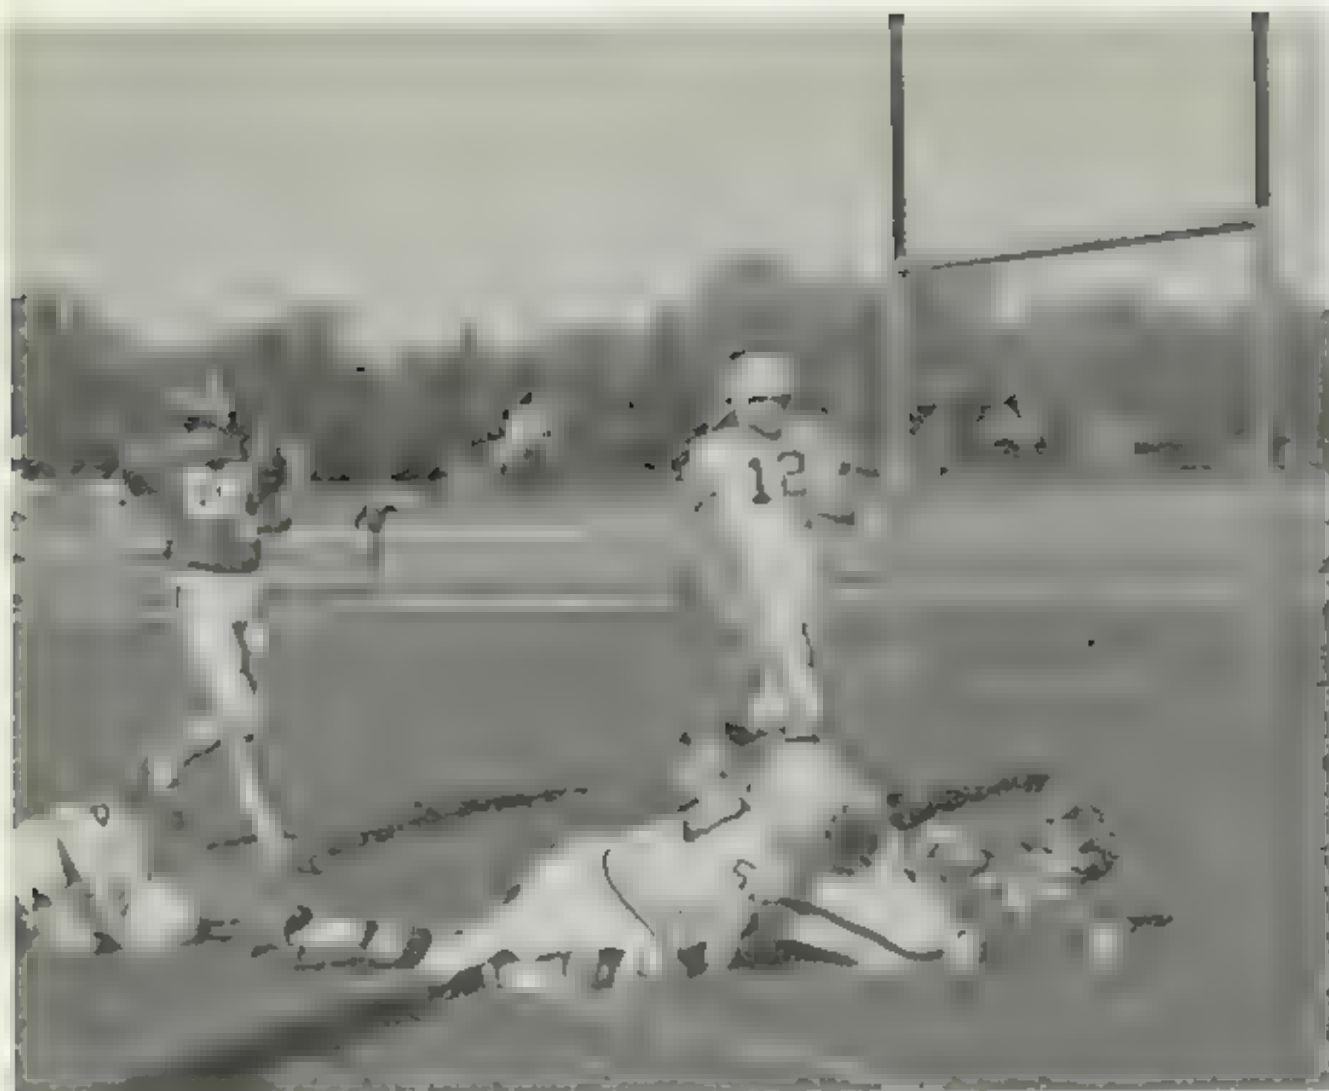

For the season opener, South played West on a cold and rainy afternoon stomping the Cowboys 31-19. The following week, an inspired Rebel football team blasted Manual 48-7. On its Homecoming, South played Thomas Jefferson for the third game of the season. It was a discouraging game for the Rebs as the Spartans won 34-13.

South staged a comeback the following week, taking command of Kennedy by a score of 27-14. Next, South "gave the devil" to the Angels with an impressive 31-7 win. George Washington was the next opponent for a strong Rebel team. It was a hard fought battle all the way and the game ended in a 7-7 tie.

South suffered its second loss of the season the following week. Holding a 13-7 lead at the half, it looked as though the Rebels were going to hand a defeat to the enthusiastic Lincoln team. However, late in the third quarter, the Lancers scored again and went ahead 14-13. Unfortunately, South was unable to score once more, and was forced to accept its last defeat of the season.

In the final league game of the year, the Rebel footballers turned back North 6-0. To finish up a good season, South decisively beat the Grand Junction Tigers at Grand Junction by a score of 13-7.

Led by senior backs Dan Gilbert and Paul Quintana and linemen Brent Pulsipher, Jim Thomas, Doug Burnett, and Mike McMacken, with the aid of juniors Larry Grams and Jim Soran, South finished the season as one of the strongest teams of the Denver Prep League.

Cross Country is a difficult, individualistic sport. As one of this year's top runners put it, "When you're out there running, it's all up to you. Whether you place or not depends on, first, if you have the desire to win, and second, if you have the physical ability to."

The Cross Country team is composed of three sections, the A, B, and C teams. The course they run is a bumpy, two mile jaunt around the All-School Stadium. A runner must have great stamina to keep going, which is evidenced by the strain on the faces of the runners as they push out the final hundred yards.

Coach Victor Jeter called this a "rebuilding year" after the loss of last year's top six men. This year's "A" team consists of seniors Dennis Emily, Pete Brennan, and Bob Brooks; junior Bill Gilbertson, and sophomore Richard Hildebrant. Emily led the pack, turning in his best time of 10:56 for the two mile run. The "A" team placed seventh in the City Meet, twelfth in the Denver Invitational, and thirteenth in the State Meet.

The "B" and "C" teams made up the rest of the runners. The "B" team placed fourth in the City Meet and the "C" team took a very honorable third.

South Serves to Fifth

The Rebel racketmen held their own this year though faced with tough opposition. Led by Coach Jim Crist, they opened the season with two smashing victories over West and Manual. Edged out by Lincoln, the Rebels nevertheless bounced back to life with Kennedy. Despite discouraging losses to top-placed East and George Washington, morale held high and the team rallied to conclude the season with an important win over Lincoln and a draw with North.

The racketmen finished fifth in the city ahead of North, Lincoln, West, and Manual. The team fought defiantly in the District Meet, but, faced with fierce opponents, failed to score.

Golfers Put(t) V in Victory

The Rebel golfers drove and putted to a third place tie with Thomas Jefferson in the Denver Prep League. Playing a round of at least 9 holes every afternoon and 18 holes for a match helped the linksters gain experience and confidence in their game. Captain Dave Morrell shot two 75's and one 76 in match play, to finish the season with the best team average of 81 strokes per match. Other seniors on the team included Bill Reeves and Larry Artelli. Next year's golf team will be paced by returning lettermen Dan Hicks, Bruce Holman, Bob Haugen, Steve Grasmick and Fred Whitworth.

Keeping his eye on the ball, Steve Graumack tees off in a match against West.

With ball-bulging pockets and gritted teeth, Bill Reeves puts some oomph into his drive.

This year's basketball season was one which most Rebels wouldn't care to live over again. Opening the season against the West High Cowboys, the Rebel round-ballers were corralled by a score of 68-56. However, affairs seemed to look a bit more promising in the second game when Junior Mark Williams scored 22 points to lead South to an easy 67-57 victory over Lincoln.

The following week South took on the league-leader, Manual, and received an 82-63 defeat at the hands of the charged-up Bolts. South scored its last victory of the season against North. It was a thriller all the way, as the Rebels were leading 51-44 with 3:16 remaining in the game. With fifteen seconds left North pulled up to 55-54, but Mark Williams sank a free throw with three seconds left to give the game its final score of 56-54. Against George Washington and Thomas Jefferson, South was defeated rather soundly, as these two teams won by scores of 68-43 and 74-56 respectively. In the last two games of the season, the basketballers fought valiantly to win, only to lose by scores of 64-62 to East, and 68-63 as third place Kennedy took command.

Despite the discouraging season, South had many sharpshooters in juniors Mark Williams, the team's leading scorer and winner of All-City honors, Jim Soran and Darrell Horan, and senior Dean Horan.

Dave Erickson wins against East

Cocaptain Jerry Hamilton sets his hold in preparation for a take-down of his Lincoln opponent

South's wrestling team had one of its best seasons this year. Although the team had a rather disappointing league record of 3-4-1, in the city tournament the Rebel matmen were able to take second place. Bob Derr, co-captains Dave Crouse, and Jerry Hamilton all took first place, while junior Dave Erickson finished an honorable fourth.

South sent five people, Bob Derr, Jerry Hamilton, Dave Crouse, Dave Erickson, and George Davis to the state finals. Jerry did the best as he wrestled to fifth in the state. This year's wrestling team was certainly a good one, and, as the record shows, they had a great deal of ability and a high morale that enabled the team to win many matches against some formidable foes.

The track season was a rather prosperous one this year as fourteen lettermen returned. The team was especially strong in the sprints, relays and the pole vault. Dean Horan, senior quartermiler was back after finishing fifth in the state last year. Pole vaulter Duncan Ferguson returned with his eyes set on even higher horizons. Other top runners who were back this year were seniors Mike O'Leary and Nick Vafaeas, and juniors Tom Swanson and Jim Soran.

Fortunately the weather was excellent at the start of the season and Rebel trackmen were able to get in a lot of good practice before the spring meets.

With the greatest of ease, Duncan Ferguson clears the cross-bar at twelve feet.

South Batmen Swing Rebelliously

The Rebel baseball team drove in an almost perfect record this year to give them a high spot in the Denver Prep League. Led by Coach Pagliasotti, the purple sluggers exhibited a strong desire to put together teamwork and coordination equaling a winning team.

Returning lettermen Rodger Dykema and Mike Barnes, pitchers, John Compoz, catcher, and third baseman Bill Hoerner added experience to the young team.

Even pitcher Roger Dykema needs batting practice.

"Safe at first," as Coach Pagliarotti looks on.

"The one that got away."

Swimmers Splash to Victory

Newest addition to the girls' swimming program, sponsored by Miss Jo Ann Campbell, was competitive swimming. This program was composed of girls who wanted to swim for speed and work against other girls for awards. Unlike the boys' swimming program, the girls swim against individuals instead of team against team. There were four girls on this team and two meets were held this year. The second meet was an all-city match and three out of the four from South received honors in this bout. Robin Billau won a second, a third and a fifth place. Cheryl Esterbrook took one second and two thirds; Amy Montoya received a third, a fourth, and a sixth.

Gymnasts Are on the Beam

Cathie Noble, Carol Adams, and Jan Goodman show their smiles of pride at a gymnastics meet.

This year South's Girls' Gymnastics team was not merely "on the beam," but also on the uneven parallel bars, the side horse, and on the floor—for free exercise. This program, which was new for girls at South, gave Rebel gymnasts a chance to compete for honors in meets with other schools. Competition included both compulsory routines and optional routines which were improvised by the girl competing. Sponsors Miss Jorgenson and Miss Jo-Ann Campbell agreed that the program was fun and enlightening for all concerned.

Students "Council"ed by Leaders

Student Council proved that with much work from all, combined with a lot of fun, they could produce an outstanding and smoothly run school year. While sponsoring numerous activities and projects such as the Goodwill Drive, Canned Food Drive, and Purple Parliament, they found time to hurdle the numerous obstacles they encountered concerning student legislation. Student Council agreed that they had an excellent relationship with the faculty and administration which helped them bridge the communication barrier between the student body and the faculty. Representatives from every class and many major clubs helped to carry out their project this year by involving as many students as possible in South and its activities. With the excellent advice of sponsor, Mr. Joseph Strain, Student Council completed a fulfilling year with their last big projects, Rebel Week, the Color Day activities, and the Color Day Dances, "Only Yesterday."

Loyalty a Key Word for Enthusiastic Rebels!

This year proved to be a constructive and helpful one for Loyalty Committee. Although relatively new, this sub-committee of Student Council had a very worthwhile purpose. Rebels interested in improving school spirit and creating new and different activities comprised Loyalty Committee's membership. Early in the year, the first semester president, Frank Francone, began to set the committee in motion. They received American flags, which now fly in all South's classrooms, from the Veterans of Foreign Wars. As the basketball season approached, Bob Snively took over as second semester president. Members worked to put out Winter Athletic Programs, and to sponsor buses to the basketball games. Another of their projects which helped to motivate school spirit were schedules of weekly events and activities placed on the lunchroom tables. Members showed a last burst of enthusiasm as they planned all the activities for a terrific Color Day. With Mrs. Debbie Barnhart as their sponsor, these Rebels have shown the true meaning of school spirit.

Any old time is the time to be loyal!

Clubs Sound Off With I.C.C.

Inter-Club Council accomplished a great deal this year concerning clubs. Acting as a sounding board for all these organizations in the school, I.C.C. also assisted them with schedules, membership drives, and financial problems. As a sub-committee of Student Council, it did much of its problem-solving at breakfast meetings. One of their biggest projects took place early in the year at the Sophomore Orientation Assembly. Clubs were introduced and explained to those not aware of the numerous opportunities awaiting them. Later members attended a City Wide Club Workshop for officers at East High School to add to their knowledge. Other activities included the selling of Rebel pens to aid several clubs. President, Jim Stocking and sponsor, Mr. Michael Kinsey added much to this year's I.C.C.

Yearbook Staffed by Flying Aces

While struggling to keep to the deadline schedule, the yearbook staff learned to work with cooperation and responsibility. Whether clubs editor or assistant business manager, each staff member worked on various parts of the Johnny Reb, everyone worked toward a common goal—not as individuals necessarily—but as a united group.

Typing till dawn, writing captions all night long, developing pictures at a moment's notice—these were all part of a staff member's livelihood. Our own private Red Baron, Miss Ann Campbell, led us through times of tribulation, assisted by our editor, Connie Logan.

The final moment of triumph arrived when the yearbook was flown, "by truck" from Texas; at last, the 1968 Johnny Reb, like a newborn baby, was passed around to eager young Rebels, who will treasure and keep it forever.

The Confederate Flags Down News

The Confederate, South's award winning newspaper, began another year with a welcome issue containing traditional Howdy Day Cards. Along with publishing issues filled with current events every third Friday, the staff was also the source of stickers, flags, and Rebel heads. In setting the type for the year, the staff found time to sponsor and organize a lively Rebel Roundup preceding the Homecoming game, as well as write and perform a truly Confederate style skit for the Santa Claus Shop. In providing this skit, they encouraged students to donate toys for underprivileged children. Seniors found the year complete with a special feature, the senior issue. Editor-in-chief Margaret Myers, sponsor Mr. Carl Johnston, and the entire Confederate staff of artists, writers, photographers, and editors, made the Confederate profitable reading for all Rebels.

Mixed emotions accompany Quill and Scroll officers elections.

Outstanding Writers Are Enscrolled

Would you be an active club if you had these two for sponsors?

Outstanding journalists received honor as members of South's chapter of Quill and Scroll. All members were a vital part of either the Johnny Reb or the Confederate. Performance, skill, and maintaining a "B" average were requirements for photographers, artists, and writers admitted to the Rebel branch of this honorary journalism society.

The club was headed by co-presidents Connie Logan and Margaret Myers. The co-sponsors were Miss Campbell and Mr. Johnston.

Members vote enthusiastically at Triple S meeting

The honorary organization whose purpose is to recognize scholastic excellence is the South Scholastic Society. A student gains admittance to Triple S by maintaining an average of five A's and no C's each semester.

This year Triple S, under the guidance of Mr. Buren Carr, sponsor, held many stimulating discussions relative to deciding upon the colleges of their choice. Guest speakers were also present at several meetings. Many members participated in Dollars for Scholars, the People to People Program, and even went Christmas caroling at an old folks' home. In the spring the annual banquet was held for all members.

"Just thinking about C's gives me a stomach ache."

"Okay, who's the guy who flunked study hall?"

In perfect step, Pep Club members proudly march in the Veterans' Day Parade

Pep Club Lends Vocal Support to Athletic Endeavors

Members of Pep Club were enthusiastically active in cheering our teams to victory throughout the year. These peppy girls were led by sponsors Miss Jacquelyn Dean and Mrs. Bye Cressman and president Beverly Sporcich. Raising school spirit at athletic events was only a part of the many duties of Pep Club. The girls also engaged in selling shakers and athletic tickets and presenting a fashion show during the spring.

Pom-Pon girls headed the ranks of the Pep Club at the Veterans' Day Parade.

*Rita Pacheco
Head Pom-Pon Girl*

These six cheerful Pom-Pon girls, elected by the Pep Club, practiced long and hard during the summer working out new routines. Their efforts proved successful as they promoted more school spirit and roused the optimism of the athletes. Head Pom-Pon girl, Rita Pacheco, led the girls in their job of improving school spirit.

South Skaters— Pro's(e) on Wheels

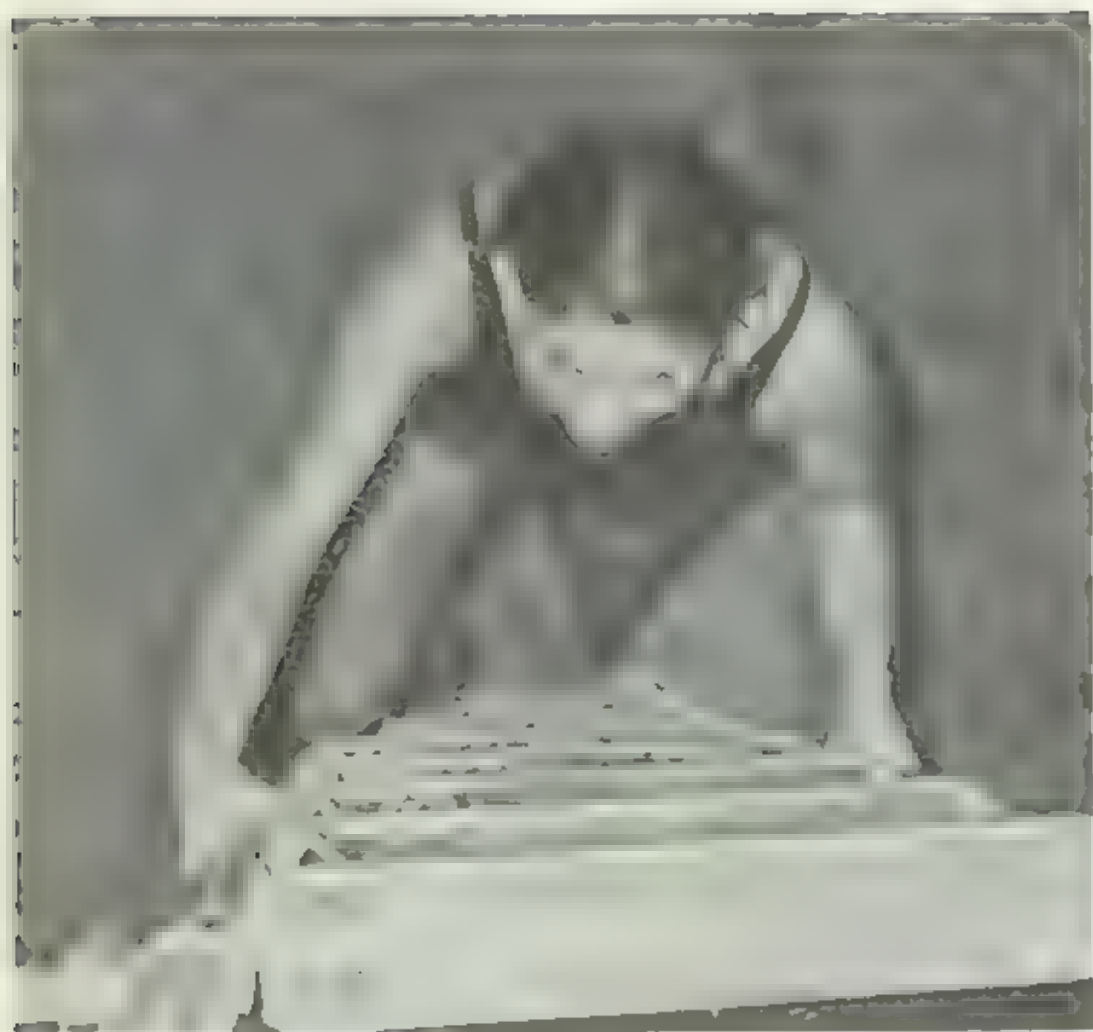

Rebel Rollers met every Wednesday night at Roller City Centre to participate in many exciting hours of fun. The skaters came to the rink to perfect skating forms and compete against other schools in races. Outside activities were planned and supervised by sponsors Mrs. Mildred Schilson, Mr. Billy Whitlow and president Cheri Osgood. Included in these activities were a hayride and a Christmas party.

Aquatic swimmers splashed every Thursday night this year at the Abraham Lincoln pool. Exhibiting enthusiastic spirit, these girls learned new strokes, life-saving techniques, and practiced for the annual water show. Many members also had the opportunity to obtain their Senior Life Saving Badge after successfully completing such a course. This club, sponsored by Miss JoAnn Campbell and headed by Jackie Weidner, had a hard time keeping one stroke ahead of their two leaders.

They're not knock-kneed! It's just the "snow-plow!"

"Follow me, boys!"

Over the Hill and Through the Dale . . .

Attacking the slopes, gliding over the snow, and feeling the wind in their faces were only a few of the thrills the members of Ski Club experienced. The club was organized just for fun and skiing. The more experienced members taught the beginners how to ski and most of all, how to have fun, aided by sponsor, Mr. Lloyd Meech. Weekly ventures to Colorado's most famous ski resorts and slopes added to the wide enthusiasm for the sport. The ski club is the largest club at South, and because skiing is becoming more popular every year it is likely that it will remain so.

"It's supposed to melt in my mouth!"

Monday nights, the hours between 4:00 and 6:00 provided enjoyable and sometimes heart-breaking times for the girls and boys in South's Bowling League. This club was formed to provide recreation and competitive bowling for students interested in the sport.

Under the direction of Mr. Norman Kurtz, sponsor, the members learned good sportsmanship and perfected their bowling forms. Their achievements were put to good use later in the year when several participated in the All City and All State bowling tournaments.

Are you sure this isn't a Photo Club meeting?

"S" club included all athletes who participated in varsity sports at South High. The club strove to stress the importance of sportsmanship on and off the field. The club also dealt with business which concerned sports. Weights and other sports equipment were purchased through club funds. School spirit was evident as the club assisted in Santa Claus Shop collections. Members also sold programs for football games and ushered at school assemblies. The "S" club picnic highlighted the year as the boys and their dates enjoyed a day of frolic and fun.

"I think he got his letter for girls' gymnastics!"

LaCrosse Swings Into High Gear

LaCrosse is a fast new sport which has swept the South High campus. The newly formed club was developed merely for fun, yet members strive for good sportsmanship and show the importance of teamwork. In the spring, practice was held every night. Games were scheduled with other LaCrosse clubs in the area, and high hopes were set upon LaCrosse's becoming an annual school sport. The club sponsors are Mrs. Schmitz and Mr. Kinsey, with president Scott Barrett.

Sharks Create Waves

Shark is the South High amateur radio club, the purpose of which is to stimulate interest and knowledge in the field of amateur radio and electronics. Regular meetings were held at which club members learned to use and repair radio equipment. Members also helped interested students in obtaining an amateur radio operator's license. The club developed and set up a new antenna along with purchasing a new transmitter and receiver. Sending free radiograms to our service men in Viet Nam from their loved ones in the Denver area is only one of the public services the club performed. The radio club agreed to send a message from anyone to anywhere in the world free of charge! Sponsors Robert Morrison and Dana Wells and president Biff Davidson reported an electrifying year!

Organ Guild, the key club for interested organ students, began the year by viewing a demonstration of a famous pipe organ by Mr. Pew at St. John's Cathedral. Other activities centered around the organ were augmented with performances for audiences. Not only did the members perform for school functions such as the P.T.A., and assemblies, but they also organized and entertained at a potluck dinner and program for their families. The quality of their recitals drew large audiences as they presented programs in December and May. The senior organists taught interested piano students to play the organ, based on their musical experience. According to Sponsor Mrs. Clarice Williams and president Cliff Ellis, Organ Guild had a very harmonious and rewarding year.

Alternate Tuesdays brought many of the school's artists to draw up a storm. Members of Artists' League, quick on the draw, presented many creative and useful pieces of work to the school. This year, instead of strictly experimenting in new fields, the artists helped the Student Council. They made posters to publicize athletic events, dances, and drives in order to interest more students in activities at school. When the league was not doing a school project, they were actively busy in learning the history of art.

Future Teachers Chalk Up High-Grade Year

Students interested in the teaching field were given the opportunity to learn about it in Future Teachers of America. Members were given some idea of what is involved in teaching as several guest speakers related personal experiences. Many of the future teachers had a chance to test their teaching skills in the tutoring program provided to assist students desiring extra help.

Besides teaching, the club was involved in selling Homecoming and Color Day corsages. With the help of sponsors, Mr. Keith Daly and Mr. John Crooks, the Alumni Tea was held at Christmas and an outstanding teacher for each month was recognized. Teacher appreciation day was also one of the club's many activities this year.

Kings and Queens Rule the Board

Chess enthusiasts met every Monday this year to play chess both competitively and for fun. Keen competition was evident as members strove to improve their skills in the game. This club gave proficient players a chance to practice their strategic skills and taught novices the rules, moves, and alertness needed to play good chess.

Hour after hour was spent by Mr. Ronald Deal, sponsor, trying to keep one move ahead of the club members, and their president, William Koch.

Club Goes International

Boys who are outstanding academically and who participate widely in extra-curricular activities are members of Key Club. The club, organized to give service to both the school and community, is in operation all over the world. The special projects of the club this year were concerned with service to Denver charities such as United Fund, Mothers March of Dimes and the Santa Claus Shop. Money the club raised helped to send several members to the international convention. The South Pole Fantasy, a dance sponsored by the club, was just one of several money-making projects that assisted their work this year.

Dixieland Diplomats Exude Cordiality

Dixieland Diplomats, South's girls' service club, was busy this year as they continued their job of Southern hospitality and assistance. Their duties began early in the year as they hosted the Sophomore welcome party. Several members ushered for the fashion show and served at the teachers' luncheon during the opening week of school. Bookcovers and booster buttons were sold by the members during the year.

Sponsors, Miss Phyllis Cowan and Mrs. Dorothy Western and president, Debbie Nerone helped to provide an enjoyable year for the members by planning parties and other outside activities. Filling out the year were a Halloween party, Christmas party, and the annual Mother-Daughter Banquet.

"Now that we've had the jokes, let's have some suggestions for a service project."

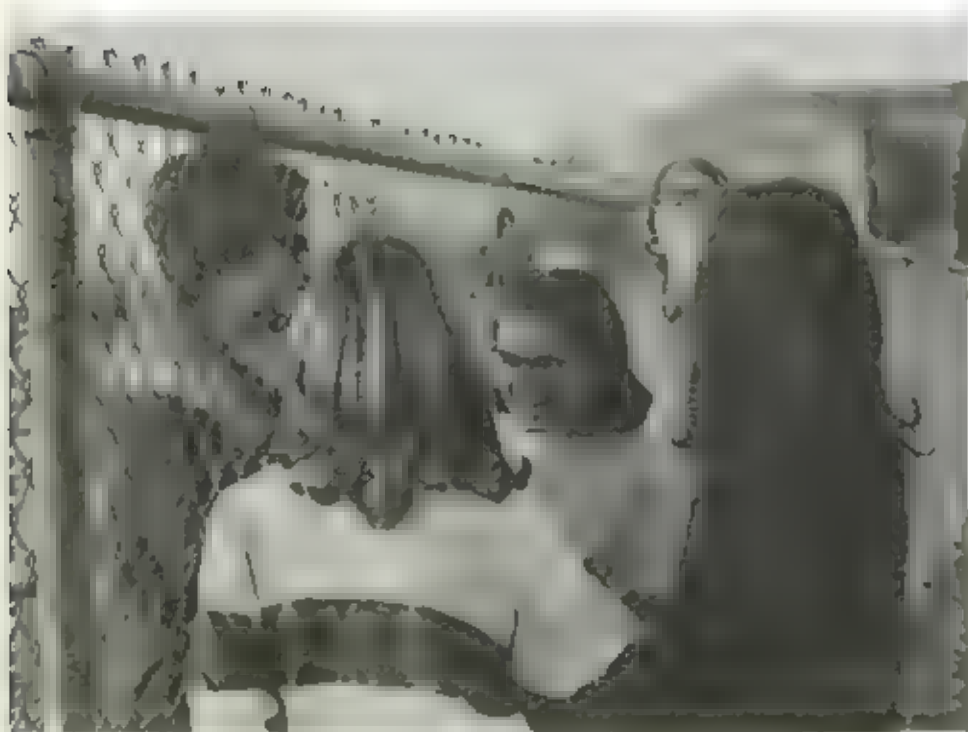

Diplomats discuss money matters.

"Whys" of Christian Living Shown by Tri-Hi

The purpose of Tri-Hi-Y was "to create, maintain, and extend throughout the home, school, church and community high standards of Christian Character." This was the motto by which the members lived this year.

During the year the members participated in a Winter Retreat and a Youth and Government program. At Christmas time, the girls went caroling and held a party with the help of their sponsor, Miss Joyce Engelbert. Other activities included a breakfast, Mother-Daughter Banquet, and Pot-Luck with the officers of Thomas Jefferson's Tri-Hi-Y.

The Clara Burton All Stars gather round to guard against a Key Club opponent.

Red Cross members began the year with a smile and a helping hand as they started off assisting people in any way possible. Halloween proved a rewarding night for members as they first gave a potluck dinner for orphans and then took them trick-or-treating. As early as November these volunteers were filling friendship kits to send to needy children in Viet Nam for Christmas. As December bounced in, red and white crossed the Key Klub Klods as the already famous Clara Barton All-Stars trounced them at the Basket Brawl. The admission price at the game, a toy, was given to the Santa Claus Shop. Cupid's Beau, the turn-about dance, another Red Cross sponsored event, made a hit this year. They gave, and the reward they received was undeniable, by entertaining patients at Fitzsimmons Army Hospital. Later in the year members sent helpful gifts and letters to the Red Cross in Viet Nam to be distributed to servicemen there.

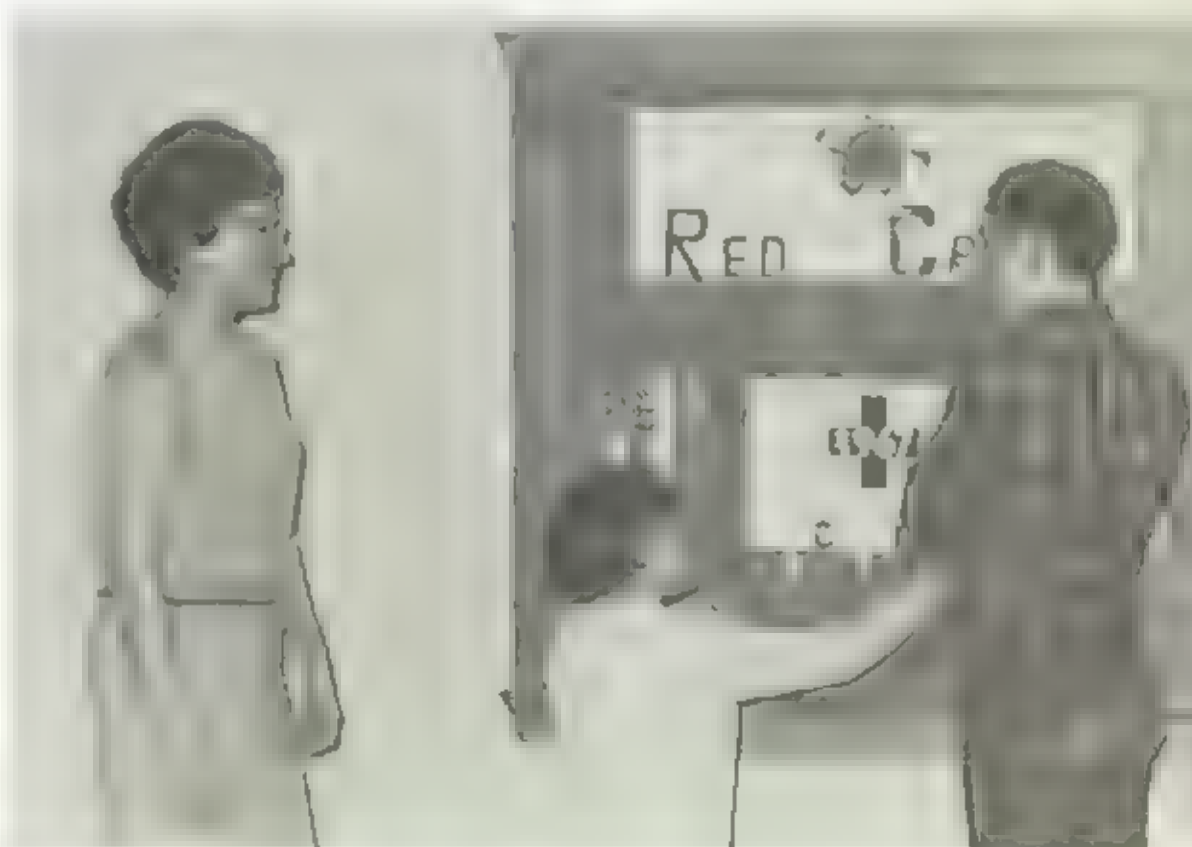

Sponsor, Mrs. Bess Brown and president, Cele Henry, agree that it was a fulfilling year for Red Cross.

Biphochem Analyzes Laboratory Wonders

Biphochem provided an excellent chance for students to explore the wonders of science through Biology, Photography, and Chemistry Meeting Thursdays, these future scientists attempted and usually succeeded in solving scientific problems which originated in their courses. Affiliated with the Colorado-Wyoming Junior Academy of Science and the National Science Clubs of America, the members did these chapters justice as they assumed a project of financing students' projects concerning general truths and laws. While busy promoting the Science Fair, these wizards also sold useful books to science students. Members were able to view the scientific endeavors being made in today's world through a number of interesting tours.

Mr. Wilfred Miller, the sponsor and Cal Brinley, president, felt Biphochem to be a most worthy experiment for the year.

They Make It Their Business to Lead

Sponsors Miss Kyle and Miss Kinney study the business at hand

Future Business Leaders of America, a nationally affiliated organization, made it their business this year to help members gain a better understanding of business occupations. These Rebels plan to become leaders of tomorrow, as competent, aggressive businessmen. Their profit gained by selling book covers, which they do each fall, was measurable by tremendous experience. Not only did members visit various business offices, but numerous guest speakers from the business world enlivened their meetings. Participating in both the fall and spring state conventions, they proved they were the "best in the business."

Markets High for DECA

Buy five new desks and charge them to Mr. Thomas

DECA is the distributive education program for marketing and distribution at South. The club promotes business education in retail marketing and distribution. Meetings are held at South High or at the Holiday Inn, at which the work of developing future business leaders is the job at hand. The district convention was held at the Cosmopolitan, with the national convention at Colorado Springs this year. The highlight for the club year was the employee-employer dinner where members and their employers gathered for a fine evening.

Sponsor, Mr. Mitick adds his opinion on the subject of a donkey-elephant race

Learning to be good citizens and elephant-boosters was the purpose of TeenAge Republicans. The members prepared themselves for the 1968 election by listening to local leaders explain the issues, discussing political problems and philosophy, and by meeting with other TARS at state conventions.

Mr. Ellsworth Mitick, sponsor of TARS, helped the young Republicans to understand politics and its workings. In February, the members participated in a winter convention and later attended the Western States' district convention. Pot-luck dinners were often held to replace the regular meetings.

Footlighters look their wickedest for Children's Theater

Footlighters Step Into Drama

Footlighters set their aims high this year as they served on committees and crews for dramatic productions. Not only did the members show dramatic interest and abilities, they helped highlight an enthusiasm for dramatic arts at South. While earning points to become drama club members in behind the scenes work, they added another prop to drama with a production of their own. With continuing effort on the part of Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom, the sponsor, and Kristi Kurtz, the student sponsor, Footlighters played their part well in the web of dramatic arts.

Masqueraders Stage a Dramatic Year

Southern Masqueraders incorporated a new idea this year as they sponsored a dramatics lab where experimentation with different acting techniques was carried out. Members are accepted into drama club according to the number of points they have accumulated by participation in dramatics. Both Children's Theater and the state contest play were staged and supported by Masqueraders. While concentrating its interests on programs for monthly meetings, the club also made a showing at various outside dramatic activities.

Sponsor Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom and president, Megan McDaniel agree that Southern Masqueraders had a "ball" this year.

The Drama call board is an informative gathering point for Masqueraders.

Thespians Direct Enthusiam to Acting

Nationally affiliated Thespians staged an exciting and dramatic year. As drama was their main intent, members busied themselves as players in different productions. They voiced their answers to, "Where's Charlie?", the All-School-Show, as their highlighting experience. An early and traditional initiation put new members "in the swing of things" and soon they too were spending wearisome, but exhilarating hours staging productions. Always casting about for new ideas, president Pam Lunn pronounced Reader's Theater one of the best. Interested members found this a rewarding experience, as they did their acting sitting down.

Sponsor, Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom, contributed to the success of Thespians this year.

Southern Townsfolk Labor Lovingly on Productions

Senior Drama, a unique club and part time class at South, labored busily this year staging two productions, Love's Labors Lost by Shakespeare and Our Town by Wilder. These advanced dramatists were active only during first semester. Then their enthusiasm was directed to the All School Show, the contest play, and other theatrical experiences.

Members became active in Senior Drama by application and tryouts. Senior Drama was taught and directed by the sponsor, talented Mrs. Joyce Nordstrom, who educates the best in theatrical arts from the members.

Senate Talks It Over

From Rome came the senate, all the way to the halls of South High. The old tradition to meet and discuss different ideas and events is still very much alive. The senate club holds the custom in high esteem as they meet weekly to converse and exchange ideas on a more modern basis than did the Romans. The students debate topics controversial and contemporary in an effort to expand their knowledge of varied subjects of importance.

Orators Debate World Problems

Rebel orators gathered together on first and third Wednesdays to further their skills in the art of speaking. This year, Speech Club and Debate Club merged to form one organization. Competitive oral activities open for expressing the students' own opinions included extemporaneous speaking and original oratory. For those students wishing to express another persons' ideas, the interpretation of poetry and humorous and dramatic interpretations were categories of competition. Fortified by stringent preparation and excellent coaching, members of this club defended South's honor in the field of forensics. Mr. William Hopkins coached the award-winning team this year, which won many superior and excellent ratings in this field.

Stage Crew Sets the Scene

Setting the stage and working the lights and curtains is only a small part of the stage crew's responsibilities. The boys work behind the scenes at plays and other functions of which the stage is a part. Special praise should be given to these boys and their director Mr. Jack Lindbloom. Their fine stage craft in many school projects insured great productions. Without the help and experience of the stage crew, many South productions would be impossible.

Girl Gymnasts Parallel Grace

One of South's newer organizations was Girls' Gymnastics club, which taught interested girls free exercise, uneven parallel bars, vaulting, and tumbling. Each gymnast was given the chance to learn a routine, or to improvise on her own, and to enter various meets around the city. Though a member of this club may be a member of competitive gymnastics, this is not required. A highlight of the year for the club was a show, "Up, Up and Away," at which the girls' dance class and gymnastics club performed in January.

Choir Is Never Disconcerted

Dr. Dana Wells
Director

Jim Thomas
President

The reputation of the concert choir for impressive and beautiful a cappella music is the pride of all Rebels. No other choir at South is as skilled in its work, and as devoted to creating musical perfection. Two years of strenuous devotion to vocal music was evident when the members of this choir performed at community and school functions.

Dr. Dana Wells made selection choices and directed the choir during performances and in sectional rehearsals held in the evenings and before school. For the second year in a row, South's Concert Choir performed in a special radio broadcast of Christmas music on N.B.C.

Girls' Ensemble Sails Over High "C's"

Girls' Ensemble is the choral singing group for junior and senior girls at South. Members had to meet set standards of good quality before acceptance into this choir. Unlike the other choirs at South, Girls' Ensemble is composed of all girls selected on their ability to synchronize their voices with others. Mrs. Hudson emphasized improved vocal techniques and a better knowledge of vocal music in her daily classroom sessions as director of this group.

Attention Is Called to R.O.T.C.

The purpose of the R. O. T. C. is to instill in young men leadership and to teach them to become better citizens. This is done by instruction in such subjects as military fundamentals, tactics, use of weapons, and courtesy. When a cadet becomes a commissioned officer, it signifies that he has received sufficient training in these areas and is now qualified to teach his knowledge to others. The cadet may also participate in the color guard, rifle team, and drill team.

This may sound very military but the cadets have social functions as well, the highlight being the annual Military Ball and Banquet held at the Brown Palace Hotel.

The Honorary Cadets, who are chosen from the sophomore class each year, help to keep the atmosphere alive with new and constructive ideas. They assist the boys with clerical work and serve as hostesses for R. O. T. C. social functions.

Southern Style

This year's Sophomores entered South with quizzical looks and puzzled faces, but they were full of class spirit. The Juniors and Seniors were surprised by the amount of enthusiasm shown by their new competition. Participating in the United Fund Cageball Game and the P.T.A. membership drive, the Sophomores proved that they were ready and willing to get in and fight for their class. The Sophomore class party, "Anthung Goes," was sponsored by Student Council to allow the Sophomores to get acquainted. The new Rebels, guided by Mr. Dennis Barnes and Miss Lynn Cornelison, has the go power to help keep South on top—in anything

by Middleclassmen

The class of '69 returned to South in high spirits. Immediately swinging into action, the juniors turned out en masse for the rally for Homecoming. At the annual Cageball game for the United Fund, these "middle" children fought valiantly but only tied with the Seniors. Many participated in the fine junior talent assembly, while garages bulged with the '69ers donations to the Goodwill drive.

Under the direction of Mrs. Barbara Schmitz and Mr. Dan Zuckerman, and class officers Tom Parchman, Kathy McCurdy and Susan Connors the juniors proved to be a great asset to South.

for New Holmes

Full of spirit after winning last year's Color Day, this year's Seniors returned to South eager to prove their superiority once again. A tie with the juniors in the Cageball game for the United Fund spurred the Seniors to greatness as they canned the underclassmen in the Canned Food Drive. With Holmes, their lovable St. Bernard, as a mascot, and their motto of "Rebel Class of '68—The Only Way to Graduate," the Seniors renewed the old Southern tradition of class shows. Leading the way with "South Through the Years," the Seniors displayed their talent in the many fields of music.

Through the guidance and understanding of Mr. James Kingsbury, and Mrs. Debbie Barnhart, the Senior class looked forward to graduation and looked on the past three years at South as three of the most memorable.

Sponsors Mr. James Kingsbury and Mrs. Debbie Barnhart.

Senior Rebel Rousers

Rebel Rousers are outstanding members of the senior class who are selected by the faculty on the basis of their school spirit, participation, and contributions to the school and the community. All seniors are eligible except the Outstanding Senior Girl and Boy and the All-School and Senior Class officers. This year a committee composed of faculty members from each department selected thirty-one students who were worthy of being named Rebel Rousers. We extend our congratulations to these outstanding members of the Class of 1968—these Rebel Rousers.

Mike Bancroft
Rebel Rouser

As one of South's leading vocalists, Mike Bancroft enthralled many Rebel audiences with his outstanding tenor voice. Mike, alias Rudy Vallee, sang his way back to the days of the roaring 20's in the Senior Class Show. Later he returned to 18th Century England to portray John Chesney in this year's All-School Show, "Where's Charley?" Mike's musical accomplishments did not stop here. He was a member of Concert Choir as well as being one of the few selected for All-City Choir.

Not to be forgotten was Mike's never-ending willingness to help and encourage his fellow classmates, which made him a true Rebel Rouser.

Iris Boltz
Rebel Rouser

South's "singing senior" this year was Iris Boltz. She was not only an outstanding member of Concert Choir, but she is an accomplished pianist as well. Her talented fingers provided accompaniment for "Rudy Vallee" and "Al Jolson" in the Senior Class Show. Outside of her singing, Iris' voice joined with other Pep Club members' to shout encouragement to various sports teams. Even though she takes all of her musical talents seriously, Iris has an excitingly warm sense of humor. She is very understanding, too, and as Dr Wells' assistant she has helped him through some of his more trying moments. It is for her incomparable efforts in the music areas and her matchless devotion that we recognize Iris as a true Rebel Rouser.

Bob Brooks
Rebel Rouser

Bob "Norton" Brooks, will best be remembered by his friends as South's seventy-sixth trombone. He has played in the concert orchestra and show band for three years as well as being the concert band vice president this year. Perhaps Bob will always remind some of us of his famous yellow MG, the "banana", which also sported a catchy red bandana upon the antenna. We still don't know how he always managed to fit all his one fathom plus inside the large "chiquita."

Also surprising is the fact that "Nort" is a varsity swimmer as well as a cross countryman. Surprising that is, when you consider Bob's 3.994 grade point average and the college level classes he is taking to maintain such grades.

Bob's always happy personality made him a person we all respect and enjoy having in our Rebel company.

Dave Crouse
Rebel Rouser

Although he faces opponents with grim determination, Dave Crouse is one of the most cheerful of all Rebels. You'll never see him cross, and he always has something witty to say to those he sees.

This year, Dave was an outstanding wrestler, taking first in city at 112 pounds but running into difficulty at the state tournament. He feels wrestling has taught him to overcome problems, and that this is the greatest reward a person can derive from a varsity sport. He knows what it is to be humble.

Besides meeting the demanding requirements of wrestling, Dave participated in Triple S and S Club.

For your dedication and interest in South High School you are a true Rebel Rouser, Dave.

Andy Dahl
Rebel Rouser

Andy is characterized as an energetic, hard-working individual, particularly when it involves Red Cross or Future Business Leaders of America, two of the activities he is involved in. Over the past year, Andy could be found almost anywhere help was needed. A prime example was the Red Cross Bulletin board, which he built up into an informative, colorful project, adding notices and articles to help inform the students of the goals of the Red Cross organization here at South. The unique decorations at Cupids Beau were devised and mostly put up by Andy.

Anyone who has worked with Andy will never forget the work he did with the orphans at the Red Cross Halloween party, putting them first and his needs second.

So it is that we honor you, Andy Dahl, for your being involved in South, as a Rebel Rouser

Carol Fischbach
Rebel Rouser

Whether rehearsing in a dance line for the Senior Class Show, staying late for a committee meeting, planning and making decorations for an upcoming dance, or working on some other "behind-the-scenes" project, Rebel flag waver Carol Fischbach could usually be found after school in Senior Hall.

This smiling senior was described as being dependable; so dependable Student Council asked her to be chairman of the Color Day Decoration Committee; so dependable that she was elected by Red Cross to represent that club on I.C.C.

It seems she was involved in one way or another in every school event, yet she still had time to put in a great deal of community service, keep a high grade point average that put her in the top ten per cent of the class, and practice her inimitable defensive judo.

Marybeth Fox
 Rebel Rouser

One of South's leading Democrats has been Marybeth Fox. Following her term last year as president of the South Teen Dems, she presided this year as vice-president of the state organization. Marybeth has also demonstrated some of her skills in another direction by being named State 1968 Betty Crocker American Homemaker of Tomorrow. On the intellectual side, she ranked as one of South's seven 4.0 seniors and one of the 14 National Merit Finalists. In her "spare" time Marybeth managed to be associate editor of the Confederate and a member of Quill and Scroll and Triple S

Donna Gross
 Rebel Rouser

Every Senior Class should have a Donna Gross. Her unmistakable but friendly laugh has welcomed many weary Seniors to Senior Hall. Donna's natural and charming sense of humor which prompts her laughter can best be appreciated by joining her in a rousing game of jacks. Needless to say, it would take someone with this sort of delightful personality to help friends create a cheer about broccoli—her favorite vegetable. Donna also has many commendable leadership abilities, as she is recording secretary of Pep Club and treasurer of the Senior Class. Her contributions in the drama area range from Children's Theatre to Senior Drama. We are indeed happy to salute Donna as a Rebel Rouser.

Nan Haines
Rebel Rouser

Talented Nan Haines has held many note worthy positions in her three years at South. She helped lead her class to a Color Day Victory as Junior Class Secretary. As one of the busiest people at South, she could be seen rushing here and there with a smile for everyone as she fulfilled her duties as Major of the Honorary Cadets, Cheerleader, member of Triple S club, while still managing to maintain a 4.0 average. She was the first Key Club Sweetheart ever to be elected at South. Nan has picked up the nickname of Horrible Haines as she portrayed the part of a football player in a rally the day before our big game with George Washington, and also the nickname "Belle" from one of the funniest rallies South has ever had.

For all these reasons and many more, Nan has been selected as a Rebel Rouser, one of the best this school has seen.

Jory Hancock
Rebel Rouser

Jory Hancock, better known as twinkle toes, may be seen drifting about the halls dancing his way to classes. As choreographer for "Where's Charley?", Jory used his coordinated brain power to devise complicated but well-patterned steps for his followers, the dancers in the All-School Show cast. Back stage, his patience was a virtue as he buttoned the tiny buttons of the girls' gloves. Jory works hard to maintain his 3.8 average but he may be seen more often balancing his books on his head rather than carrying them like normal people. Having been selected as Outstanding Junior Boy, it's obvious he does more than dance his way through school. However, his main ambition is to become a professional dancer by attending Indiana State University on a dance scholarship.

Barbara Hanna
Rebel Rouser

One of the brightest features of the Senior Class was Barbara Hanna, the feature editor of the Johnny Reb since her junior year. While maintaining a 4.0 grade average, Barbara found the time to be an active member of many South clubs as well as planning and writing all theme copy for the yearbook. Her voice was heard many times, not only in cheers urging Rebel athletes on to victory, but also in the ranks of South's outstanding Concert Choir. Barbara's musical abilities are not restricted to singing as she is also an excellent pianist. As a dependable, conscientious, and reliable student, Barbara was indeed an asset to South High.

Ron Hernandez
Rebel Rouser

Enthusiasm and Ron Hernandez are synonymous. During his three years at South, Ron's predominant means of supporting his school was in the dramatic areas. His contributions included both acting and directing each equally well done through his intense and sincere manner. Ron has also taken part in D.U.'s Children's Theatre. But when the scripts are set aside, it is certain you'll find him with the Ollies backing South's teams. He is also one of our most cheery seniors, with an incomparable ability to tell a good joke. His warm personality and enthusiasm will surely be missed at South in the coming years.

Kathryn Johnson
Rebel Rouser

During her three years at South, Kathryn Johnson brought many honors to our school. She was chosen the Outstanding Junior Girl last year and maintained a 4.0 grade average. Her most remarkable achievements were in the field of English. As a junior, Kathryn participated in numerous speech meets and won first place in the extemporaneous division for girls at the Shafroth Meet. As a result of this accomplishment, the girls' traveling trophy was on display at South for one year. In her senior year, Kathryn was chosen as one of the outstanding high school English students in the U. S. by the National Council of English Teachers. Last summer Kathryn represented South and the United States in the People to People High School Ambassador program. Students and teachers alike will miss Kathryn, who always had a smile, and time, for everyone.

Val Johnson
Rebel Rouser

"Watch out for the Peanut Wagon!" This is the familiar warning cry as Val Johnson drives her red Rambler roadster, with the Peanuts characters on the windows, in and out of South's parking lot. Often filled with carless sports enthusiasts, the "Peanut", driven by Val, makes its way to most of South's athletic events. This is only one of the ways in which Val shows her friendliness and willingness to help other people. Besides being an outstanding member of Pep Club and an officer of Tri-Hi-Y, Val has also found time to be a good student and, consequently, a member of Triple S

Vicki Johnson
Rebel Rouser

Soft-spoken was not the word for Vicki as many people know. She was often heard as well as seen in Senior Hall drilling the Honorary Cadets. As the Honorary Cadet Commander, she inspired many new ideas and worthwhile projects. She didn't quit here with her work, as she was a key member of the girls' rifle team as well as participating in many clubs at South. She used her voice to another purpose as a member of South's Concert Choir. Working well with other people was Vicki's specialty. Aiding her in this was her warm personality and quick smile, which seemed to radiate from her. It is with pride that we salute Vicki, a South Rebel Rouser.

Gary Joiner
Rebel Rouser

Gary "Benny Goodman" Joiner was generally seen with a clarinet in his mouth as he played in all of South's instrumental music groups as well as acting as president of the concert band. Along with all his musical activities, Gary has been a member of the varsity swimming team and has maintained an unusually high grade average. He has taken the harder science classes as well as college math, perhaps the most difficult class at South.

"Gar" wants to be a dentist, and because of his intelligence and great, humorous personality, we're sure he'll be excellent in such a profession. In fact, in Gary's own words, we can best summarize him with his favorite piece of knowledge "F—MA." Yeah, Gol

Connie Logan
Rebel Rouser

When you meet Connie Logan, you know that you have met one of the happiest personalities at South. She is unstintingly friendly to all that she sees. In the spare moments she has, when she isn't busy being editor-in-chief of the Johnny Reb, she finds time to read up on the latest cars competing in the Grand Prix. If you go over to her house, she will inevitably get out her Hindu astrology book and tell you what your whole life is going to be. Connie managed the staff with efficiency by simply saying, "This is your job—I want it done by tomorrow."

South will certainly miss her cheerfulness in everything she does.

Jim Metzger
Rebel Rouser

Quick witted, easy going, and just generally nice, very aptly describes Jim Metzger. Appearing in many of South's drama productions, he gave audiences a taste of this wit by his portrayal of Anthony Dull in Love's Labour's Lost, and Corporal Opie Dalrymple in Rally Round the Flag Boys. Aside from being an accomplished actor, Jim has an admirable singing voice and is a member of Concert Choir. An avid supporter of South's athletic events, he is an integral part of OLLIE. A talented senior, and a rebel rouser worthy of this distinction, Jim will be greatly missed by his friends at South.

Marcia Mihevic
Rebel Rouser

A familiar face among the student body of South High is that of Marcia Mihevic. Seen often with one particular guy Marcia attends every school function that she possibly can. As a cheerleader, she did a great deal to help our athletic teams on to victory. One wonders where she finds time for all of her activities, as she is an Honorary Cadet, a member of the Concert Choir, and numerous clubs. Another baffling thing about Marcia is the number of people she seems to know. A friend of everyone, an enemy to none, Marcia Mihevic is truly a Rebel Rouser.

Pat Minter
Rebel Rouser

Anyone who has ever attended a South High athletic event or strolled through Senior Hall is sure to know Pat Minter. "Gunga" as his friends call him has taken an active part in all of South's athletics from football to baseball as a team manager. It's quite hard to be a good manager and Pat is as great at it as any varsity team could hope for. He's always there when a player needs him.

All the office personnel and assistants will remember Pat too, for the hard work he did and the countless messages he delivered. Most of the remaining part of Pat's busy days were spent as an active member of South's Key Club.

Pat will always remain to us a symbol of courage, as perhaps South's happiest Rebel!

Amy Montoya
 Rebel Rouser

Not only does Amy Montoya promote school spirit within the halls of South High, but she also generated it at every gymnastics meet held for high school girls. She demonstrated her agility in the Senior Class Show as "Time" passing by. Many gym classes have had the privilege of watching Amy demonstrate Free Exercise routines for them as well as her ability on the balance beam and uneven parallel bars. With many years of practice, Amy has become one of the best. She placed First in Regional Competition, Third All Around in the 1967 AAU meet and Fourth All Around in State. No matter what Amy enters, whether it be the balance beam, free floor exercise, or vaulting, she never fails to place in a meet. Agility certainly lent a hand in Amy's victories but more prevalent was her winning Rebel Rouser spirit.

Joel Moreno
Rebel Rouser

Who would ever guess that Joel Moreno is the owner of a fine singing voice? Well, he does possess such an asset, and he did contribute to the harmony of Concert Choir this year. Fellow choir members heaved a sigh of relief this spring when Joel returned to school, vocal chords unharmed, from a tonsilectomy. While one could not compare Joel's voice to a nightingale's, it does have a nice tenor ring to it. And if any big bully should become insanely jealous of Joel's musical talent and try to destroy it, Joel should be able to take care of himself because he is a pretty good wrestler too. With or without his tonsils, Joel is a well-liked Rebel.

Margaret Myers
Rebel Rouser

This year's Editor-in-Chief of the Confederate was Margaret Myers, and in this position she managed to keep an eye on all Southern affairs. Editing the school newspaper is contribution enough to deserve recognition as a Rebel Rouser, but Margaret has done much more. She is a true virtuoso on the violin, and this skill earned her seats in both the state-wide and city-wide orchestras. She is a member of Triple S with a 4.0 grade point average and is co-president of Quill and Scroll. Besides all these outstanding achievements, Margaret has a quiet, subtle sense of humor that will be missed by many of her fellow students next year.

Debbie Nerone
Rebel Rouser

A cheerful hello and a bright, glistening smile were part of Debbie Nerone's Rebel Rousing personality. Even when the pressures of a hectic school day were straining her nerves, Debbie was always the first to offer a joke or two to cheer up a fellow student. Her classic imitation of a "pea-hen" during intermission at the first performance of "Music Man," her pantomime of a small boy eating a butterfly in Senior Hall or her famous double-take on the stage at Awards Night were among many of Debbie's hilarious antics. But apart from her jokes, Debbie had a very serious side and this made her one of the truly outstanding people of all time.

She was Head Artist on the Annual staff, Dixieland Diplomat president; a great dramatist having the lead in the Senior Drama play and a superb speaker winning many superior awards in forensics. All of this took applied seriousness but the best thing was that Debbie did all this with a smile. The best to a great Rebel.

Cathie Noble
Rebel Rouser

Without a doubt, South's most avid and enthusiastic snow worshipper is Cathie Noble. It seems few people have ever seen her skiing, but it is rumored she's quite good. Some of her fondest thoughts include buckle boots, Hart Javelins, and "Think snow." Though Cathie's mind is definitely ski oriented, she has found gymnastics equally challenging and exciting. In fact, she is the treasurer of the newly formed Girls' Gymnastics Club. There have been times, however, when Cathie has come to school in ace bandages or on crutches, refusing to blame either of her sacred sports for the mishap. Along with her athletic pastimes, she has found the time and energy to be a model president of South's Tri-Hi-Y.

Mark Petersen
Rebel Rouser

Notorius for disturbing his friends in the middle of the night is blond-haired, blue-eyed Mark Petersen. Being boy representative in his junior year, Mark played a "key" role in his helpful attitude toward student council as a senior. Also as a junior, he was sports editor of the yearbook and champion salesman. President of South's Key Club, Mark guided the club in many worthwhile projects which were successful largely through his efforts. He also maintained a good grade point average while taking such courses as Physics and College American History. A great guy with many activities is Mark Petersen, whose friendship many are proud to have.

Dan Pinello
Rebel Rouser

Rebel Rouser Dan Pinello proved the old adage true: actions do speak louder than words! Basically a quiet person, Dan worked very hard for his school but didn't advertise. During the past three years he has earned the position of major and Intelligence officer in the R.O.T.C. program. As president of F.T.A. he has had many responsibilities to fulfill. Dan did all his required jobs well, plus just a little extra, so that everyone was satisfied. Although he had many extra-curricular activities his grades didn't suffer, and he was an active member of South's Scholastic Society in his junior and senior years.

Brent Pulsipher
Rebel Rouser

Brent Pulsipher, who is probably one of the quietest people at South, maintains a wry sense of humor and an alarming frankness which often catches people off-guard. Brent is a very active Rebel as he attends most school functions, often with one particular girl. In his junior year, Brent was an All-City representative to the Human Relations Club. Last fall he received the honor of being selected All-City tackle by the Denver newspapers. He is also a member of "S" Club and a columnist on the Confederate staff. An excellent student, Brent approaches his studies as well as his activities with a philosophical attitude. This may impress others as aloof rather than rousing, but one doesn't always need to make noise to be important. Brent has been a very important asset to his class and to South, and the place won't seem the same without him!

Bill Reeves
Rebel Rouser

When one tries to think of an all-around person, the name Bill Reeves is sure to pop up. Secretary of the Key Club and a member of various other clubs, Bill is certainly an asset to any organization. He has also found time to earn a varsity letter on the golf team, and attend both Boys' State and the International Key Club Convention this past summer. All of this he has done and still remained in the top ten percent of the senior class. A guy who does everything well, Bill Reeves is an outstanding senior whom all are sure to remember.

Jim Stocking
Rebel Rouser

Jim Stocking, known by many as "socks," has certainly got to be one of the funniest people at South High. An active member of the senior class, he was also Inter-Club Council president, a member of Quill and Scroll, and Sports Editor of the Johnny Reb. As a member of student council, many of his comments and contributions to activities were invaluable and helpful to the school. Being a very versatile individual, he took part in the All-School Show, Where's Charley?, and still found time to support South's athletic events as a member of the infamous OLLIE club. Jim Stocking is a very remarkable individual, one very deserving in being chosen a Rebel Rouser.

Laurie Yasui
Rebel Rouser

If you've ever gone to one of South's athletic events you've seen a lively Reb-elle jumping around and leading South's Pep Club in cheers. Under a cap of beautiful black hair is the human dynamo, Laurie Yasui. When Laurie isn't cheerleading, she can usually be found working on a gymnastics routine in the Girls' Gym or teaching judo to South's girls. Although Laurie is small, she can flip anyone twice her size. Laurie's strong voice, which she uses for cheering, is also a great asset to South's Concert Choir.

Outstanding Senior Boy Jerry Hamilton

Jerry Hamilton, South's head boy for 1968, attained the distinct honor of being named the Outstanding Senior Boy. Jerry was chosen by the Denver Kiwanis International from eight finalists after an open nomination by seniors and teachers at South.

Candidates for Outstanding Senior Boy were required to write an essay on "The Importance of My High School Years to My Personal Growth and Development." Finalists were personally interviewed by members of the Kiwanis club. Jerry impressed the judges by his performance in both of these areas and by his interest in such varied fields. His well-rounded personality was a basic factor in the judges' decision.

Besides being head boy, Jerry was Cupid's Beau King, took first in City and fifth in State wrestling, and was active in leadership conferences such as the Denver Mayor's Youth Council. He participated in class activities and in various clubs while maintaining very good grades. Furthermore, Jerry was accepted to the United States Military Academy at West Point. Certainly all Rebels can be proud of such a distinguished representative of their school.

Outstanding Senior Girl Mary Gaebel

A truly "Outstanding Senior Girl," Mary Gaebel was chosen for that D.A.R. title from thirty-seven nominees at South. Three other finalists were Debbie Nerone, Marcia Mahevic, and Nan Haines.

Mary more than fulfilled the requirements for selection by the Daughters of the American Revolution. These requirements were dependability, service, leadership, and patriotism. A faculty committee then selected Mary from the four finalists. As South's representative, Mary will attend the state "Good Citizen" contest where she will compete with girls from different high schools.

In her sophomore year, Mary was class vice-president. This year she served as Senior class vice-president. She is active in Concert Choir, drama, and numerous clubs. In addition, Mary had increased duties at home because of her mother's illness. Her many accomplishments and her friendly outgoing personality certainly convinced Mary's fellow Rebels that she deserved her title.

Senior Memories

Memories that come like leaves in the wind.

But memories live then forever.

Waiting to see what tomorrow brings.

Rambler, dreamer, realist, loner.

All remembering autumn through May,
what is.

Now the leaves blow into the wind.

Memories to cherish for every day.

Dreams as dark as the light of an open window.

It is so hard to let go of what is gone.

Waiting for the memories fade.

While drifting, seeking a satisfied soul.

In a world of changes.

On a journey through life.

They still reach for remembrance.

South African Becomes Southern Belle

A freckled, auburn-haired girl who is always on the go, Jackie Hillhouse, South's American Field Service exchange student from South Africa, easily fit into life as a Rebel. With her quick way and engaging accent, Jackie, a senior, made herself known and liked by South's students.

Jackie's South African home is a sheep and cattle ranch near the tall Drakensburg mountains in Cape Province. She grew up near Indwe, a village of about seven hundred Europeans and natives. Jackie speaks the African dialect of her area fluently. Her American home was with Ellen Peacock, a junior, and her parents.

The relaxed atmosphere and the many clubs and activities at South were especially appealing to Jackie. But she sometimes became homesick for the high mountains, the "blue, blue skies," the spectacular sunsets, and the lower prices of South Africa. Football was new and enjoyable to her, though she missed participating in many sports in which she was active at her home.

We are proud to have had such a lively foreign exchange student this year. When Jackie says that she likes Americans, we must reply that we like South Africans, at least this one!

"You say you live in the middle of the Pacific?"

Foreigners at Home Down South

This year South High School became a point of rendezvous for several foreign students from nearly all parts of the globe. Each student came on his own to our school, and each hoped to benefit from life here in the United States. Their presence was an enriching factor in the lives of all of us who knew them.

At South this year there were two students from Iran. One, Jakob Nazarian, was accustomed to "southern customs" as he has been at South two years, but the other, Juliette Soufer from Teheran, at first found the fast pace of life here overwhelming.

Susan Trieu came to the United States from South Vietnam. Her brother also attended American schools. From the British Isles came Gwendolyn Vinson, whose home is in England.

Like Iran, South America lent two pleasant contributions to South's population. Marcia Leite, from Sao Paulo, Brazil, missed her favorite sport of skin diving, but enjoyed the snow. She wanted to get "life experience" here in the United States. The other South American student was Billye Serron from Peru, who could speak hardly a word of English before she arrived at South.

These foreign students agreed on one point: life in America is very different from life in their native countries. But their many friends at South agree that they all seemed to adjust readily to life as Rebels.

Foreign students from left, Juliette Soufer, Jakob Nazarian, Susan Trieu and Marcia Leite point to their native countries.

I have spent year
I have & spent year
I have & spent year
I have & spent year

I've known you for kind a long time
and you still as sweet
as always! See Round!
Me,
Patty Patterson

Diane,
It was for last semester.
Spanish? so bad
we didn't get in the same class again!
